egion Demands Bonus Payment, Dry Law Repeal

verwhelmingly in Favor of Immediate Payment of Bonus and Repeal of Prohibition Law Asked at Convention.

Portland, Ore., Sept. 16 (AP).—Immediate payment of the bonus and prohibition repeal today had been overwhelmingly demanded by the American Legion in its 14th annual national convention.

The 1,260 delegates voted ten to one yesterday for full adjustment of the bonus, less than 24 hours after President Hoover had declared the two billion dollar bonus bill would jeopardize economic recovery. Prohibition repeal was asked by a similar vote.

Before adjournment yesterday, the convention elected Louis A. Johnson, Clarksburg, W. Va., attorney, to succeed Henry L. Stephens, Jr., of North Carolina, as national commander. Next year's convention will be in Chicago.

Censure War Department

The War Department was censured because envelopes franked by the department, containing statements printed on department stationery and written by Secretary Patrick J. Hurley on the bonus marchers, were placed on delegate's chairs.

Secretary Hurley said he had not authorized use of the frank. The envelopes were not postmarked.

Early in the final session Legionnaires showed their desire to vote on the bonus and prohibition, listening impatiently and frequently interrupting opponents of immediate bonus payment. The vote was 1,167 to 109.

Brigadier General Frank T. Hines, veterans' administrator, had warned the convention at a previous session to "take into consideration the ability of the country to pay."

When prohibition was reached repeal was asked for 1,144 to 122.

Seek Larger Army.

The Legion goes into its new year pledged to support a larger army and navy, believing "America will never seek a war and a war will never seek a prepared America; opposed to recognition of Soviet Russia; opposed to the Griffin bill which would permit naturalization of aliens without taking an oath of willingness to bear arms in defense of the United States.

A resolution which the Pennsylvania delegation had hoped to present to the convention, calling for censure of President Hoover because troops were used in evicting the bonus marchers from Washington, D. C., was killed in committee the night before the convention closed, dying for want of a second. No attempt was made to have the question taken to the floor, although the Pennsylvania group had declared such action would be taken.

Johnson, the new commander, will be assisted by vice commanders from five districts—Charles A. Mills of Florida, John Maloney of Maine, W. H. Easterwood of Texas, Robert Flory of Nebraska, and Russell Meadows of Arizona. The Rev. Irving Wood of Pocatello, Idaho, was chosen as national chaplain.

RELIEF LEADERS RETURN FOR WINTER'S CAMPAIGN

Washington, Sept. 16 (AP).—Leaders in the country's welfare work returned homeward today, mobilized nationally for an autumn drive for funds to meet the winter's relief needs.

Twenty-nine social service organizations were in the mobilization directed by Newton D. Baker, former war secretary. Representatives of all in conference yesterday had received President Hoover's charge that "No man, woman or child shall go hungry or unsheltered" during the cold months.

Baker told the relief agencies, organized under the National Citizens' Committee of the welfare and relief mobilization which he heads, that to public relief aids "must be added a devotion of every public source."

The committee has set October 17 to November 23 for its campaign to raise relief funds.

PATRICK T. MURPHY NAMED K. OF C. AUDIT CHAIRMAN

William J. Armstrong, state deputy of the Knights of Columbus, has announced the appointment of Patrick T. Murphy of this city as chairman of the Knights of Columbus State Audit Committee. Mr. Murphy is a past grand knight of Kingston Council, No. 275, and a former state treasurer and district deputy of the order.

State Deputy Armstrong also appointed as state chaplain the Rev. J. L. Smith, pastor of St. Patrick's Church, Catskill.

MARRIED AND SINGLE KNIGHTS TO BATTLE

The first annual baseball game between the married and the single men of Kingston Council, No. 275, Knights of Columbus, will take place on Saturday afternoon at the Fair Grounds. The game will start at 2:30. This tilt between the "benedicts" and the "bachelors" promises to be full of thrills, and the outcome is expected to be in doubt until the last "out" has been made. The rest of the membership of the council are asked to be present in large numbers and to help urge their favorites on to victory.

Ask Bus Owners To Come To Agreement

Whereby One Ownership be Reached and Passengers Be Afforded Good Service.

There was a hearing today before a representative of the Public Service Commission at the court house whereby it was hoped some unification between the DuBois & Elliott bus line and the Van Gonsic Brothers line might be had which would relieve the people of Lloyd and New Paltz of some of their transportation difficulties.

It was the same old story which has existed for some time since the officials of the adjoining towns have refused to grant permission to operate a bus line within the town by the operator whose residence is in the adjoining town. New Paltz holds forth for Van Gonsic and Lloyd for DuBois and Elliott.

The present difficulty resulted when there was a change in schedules which makes it impossible for a traveler to go from the river to New Paltz village without a considerable wait at the cemetery bridge where the opposing bus lines meet and transfer passengers, at the town lines.

Application was made for a hearing on the part of the New Paltz Normal officials and students at the school who are compelled to use the bus lines.

DuBois & Elliott having received consent of Lloyd to operate a line to the Lloyd line, Van Gonsic has the consent of New Paltz officials and operates to that town line. There the passengers are discharged at the cemetery bridge and stand in the open until the transfer bus arrives and they continue their trip. Recent changes in the schedules have resulted in vast differences in time and passengers have been compelled to wait long for the "connecting" bus.

Recently a faculty meeting was called at the Normal for 2:30 o'clock. Teachers arrived from their homes and found bus connections would not permit their arriving at the meeting until an hour after it had been called. A change in the schedules had caused a lack of coordination between the two bus lines.

At the hearing, which was conducted in a very informal manner, A. W. Lent appearing for DuBois & Elliott suggested that some agreement be reached whereby the public might be served. Both lines are apparently operating at small profit, if any.

Mr. Lent suggested several plans for a consolidation or unification of the two lines, either by co-operative movement or by one of the lines buying the rights of the other and operating through without a stop at the town lines.

The propositions were discussed at length and most of the suggestions were discarded by one operator or the other. Mr. DuBois, who was at the hearing, intimated that he would buy out at a fair price the rights of Mr. Van Gonsic.

Under the present operating conditions double equipment is required and apparently both lines are making little or no money. Operated as one line with a reduction in equipment costs and overhead one line probably would make a profit.

It was suggested that the two owners get together and attempt to decide whether some plan for one ownership might not be reached.

Continue Search For New York-Rome Plane

Rome, Sept. 16 (AP).—The Italian air force and the government continued its wide search over land and sea today for the missing New York-Rome airplane "American Nurse" and its three occupants, two men and a woman.

Officials said, however, they feared the likelihood of finding the plane was small. Air officers were inclined to believe the craft fell into the sea.

Last night the Nicholas lightship, stationed in the North Sea about a mile off the British coast, reported that an airplane had come down on the water, taxied a short distance and exploded.

A lifeboat and a tug from Yarmouth found no trace of the plane. The air ministry had no record of a missing ship but it was reasoned that the plane reported by the lightship could hardly have been the "American Nurse," for the incident occurred many hours after the American plane must have run out of fuel.

New Flareups In Illinois Mine War

Braidwood, Ill., Sept. 16 (AP).—The scene of hostilities in the Illinois mine war has shifted from southern to northern Illinois, with new flareups occuring not far from Chicago's metropolitan district.

Guards of state highway police were on duty today in Will and Grundy counties to prevent a repetition of violence following clashes yesterday in which a few of the opposing forces were injured.

The melee occurred when insurgent miners, protestors against the reduced wage scale accepted by the United Mine Workers of America, sought to dissuade working miners from entering the strip mines of the Northern Illinois Coal Corporation near here. The pickets, estimated to number 800 had marched into this district yesterday from the Peoria area, announcing they would seek to close all working coal mines.

County's History Told To Kiwanis

Dr. Raymond S. Crispell was the speaker at the weekly meeting of the Kiwanis Club at the Governor Clinton Hotel Thursday noon, his subject being, "A Brief History of Ulster County."

Dr. Crispell in the short space of time alloted him, concisely pictured the history of the county from the dawn of time to the present. He described the changes in the surface of the earth, how once the sea came northward from New York city, through the Hudson Valley to meet the St. Lawrence; how again in ages dimmed by time the surface of the valley was raised and projected into the sea 100 miles beyond New York city. He spoke of the great glacier, 1,500 feet thick, which swept this section centuries ago and left an everlasting mark on the countryside. Dr. Crispell explained the formation of the Catskill Mountains, how the strata slopes to the west, and how the strata at the peak of Slide Mountain is buried miles under earth in Pennsylvania—had there been one more strata thickness on top of Slide Mountain, it would have been the coal bearing strata now being worked in Pennsylvania, he said.

Continuing, he pictured the first settlements of the Dutch at Albany and New York, how an Irishman in Albany, one Thomas Chambers, became dissatisfied and moved to Esopus, the first settler of this section. Mr. Chambers selected Esopus because it was a fairly clear region, and bought the land from the Indians. The speaker described how the Indians became hostile to the increasing numbers of white people, and how Peter Stuyvesant came up from New York to see that the people built protected villages.

Dr. Crispell explained the industrial life of the county, how the Delaware and Hudson Canal was the opening of an era of great prosperity to the county, how the tanning and hoop making industries added to the industrial life of the county, how the bluestone and cement industry brought the activity of the county to a close when all of these products became outdated. At the height of the boom times in 1880 there were 90,000 people in the county, and this dwindled until the construction of the Ashokan Reservoir, when it began to increase and has since slowly but steadily grown until there are now about the same number of people here as at the time of the great industries.

DECLARES ROOSEVELT MISQUOTED PRESIDENT

Washington, Sept. 16 (AP)—Senator Arthur Vandenburg of Michigan, in a statement through the Republican National Committee, said today Governor Roosevelt "grossly" misquoted President Hoover in the Democratic candidate's farm speech at Topeka, Kansas.

The committee said Vanderburg's statement had been telegraphed from his Michigan home. It said in part:

"The Governor quoted the President as having said in 1925 that continuous overproduction means surpluses which can only be curbed by prices low enough to make production impossible for some of the acreage in use. * * * The quotation is accurate. * * *

"Governor Roosevelt erroneously continues: 'The President and his supporters insisted in 1928 that we were importing $3,300,000,000 of farm products.' * * * The President made no such statement."

JESSE LASKY BECOMES INDEPENDENT PRODUCER

Los Angeles, Sept. 16 (AP).—Jesse Lasky, whose daring exploits with public fancy in the theatre gave the film fan probably more screen epics than any other man, soon is to turn back to his first love, independent productions, after more than a decade as one of the industry's major producers.

A leave of absence which began last May from Paramount Studios was brought to an end by a curt announcement from Lasky in which he alleged a breach of contract had been committed. It marked the separation of two of the oldest heads in the industry, Lasky and Adolph Zukor, president of Paramount.

Hoover Asks Banks To Aid Livestock Credit Requests

President Requests Organized Banking for Activity in Filling Credit Needs of Livestock Owners.

Washington, Sept. 16 (AP).—Organized banking groups in six Federal Reserve districts had before them today a request from President Hoover for activity in filling credit needs of livestock owners and shippers.

The President urged financial aid for livestock areas during the feeder season and pending first operations of the Reconstruction Corporation's agricultural credit institutions.

His telegram to this committee yesterday was immediately transmitted by its executive secretary, Everett Case, to chairmen of the banking groups in Chicago, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Dallas and San Francisco. It read:

"As you are aware the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is earnestly engaged in the erection of a series of credit institutions for the purpose of serving livestock and feeder loans and for other agricultural purposes.

"The corporation has found many difficulties in securing personnel and in overcoming legal questions which arise under the act, and although they are working unremittingly for the earliest possible election of these institutions, it does not appear that they will all be functioning for two or three weeks. In the meantime, the season for shipment of livestock for feeder purposes, etc., is upon us.

"I am wondering if it would be possible for you to interest the Federal Reserve banking and industrial committees in the areas of the country where this credit is required, that they should secure maximum activity of all the banks to take care of these demands, at least pending completion of the Reconstruction Corporation's organizations. I know of nothing that would more quickly promote agricultural interests than a regular flow of livestock into feed lots."

Case also advised the chairman that Wilson McCarthy, director in the Reconstruction Corporation, said the credit institutions upon completion would be prepared "to take over sound loans from the banks."

WOMEN'S HOME LEAGUE OF S. A. MEETING

The Women's League also does regular sewing, making garments for the Army's relief work. Members have planned to do considerable of this work for the emergency relief department of the local Army Corps during the winter.

INSULL DECLINES TO TALK OF INVESTIGATION

Paris, Sept. 16 (AP).—Samuel Insull declined to comment today on an announcement by Cook county authorities in Chicago that they intended to investigate the affairs of the public utilities corporations which he formerly controlled.

"I don't know that I am of any importance now," he said. "My principal concern at the moment is the health of Mrs. Insull, who has been ill now for six weeks."

Mr. Ford Stands For Repeal And Bonus

Phoenicia, N. Y., Sept. 15, 1932.
Kingston Daily Freeman, Kingston, N. Y.

Gentlemen:

In see in your paper that you are desirious of knowing how the candidates stand on public matters.

I stand on my original platform, and as it may be a considerable time before the Eighteenth Amendment can be repealed, I believe in the immediate passage as soon as Congress meets, of the beer and wine bill to the end that we may have the revenue to pay the soldiers' bonus.

No scaling down of debts owing us by foreign nations as they have been discounted sufficiently already, and if not paid now will be later.

I am against the United States entering or joining the League of Nations, World Courts or making any alliance with any foreign nation or nations. Treaties should avoid all foreign entanglements, leaving the United States free to act with absolute independence on any and all questions.

My name is second on the primary ballot.

Very truly yours,
CHARLES FORD.

DuBois Kills Self, Wife Is Missing

Quincy, Mass., Sept. 16 (AP)—Charles E. DuBois, a Tuckahoe, N. Y., jeweler, committed suicide today while police were investigating the mysterious disappearance of his wife, Edith, August 10.

DuBois died in the Quincy Hospital a short time after he had shot himself in the bathroom of a rooming house where he had been living as "Ralph Anderson."

DuBois was unconscious from the time he entered the hospital until he died. Two state police officials were in the hospital while the doctors were trying to revive the man but they were unable to get any statement from him.

Police received a call shortly before noon today to go to a Hancock street rooming house. There they found DuBois lying on the bathroom floor with a bullet wound in his head. He was taken to the hospital where, soon after his admittance, doctors said his condition was "very poor."

Alfred F. Foote, state commissioner of public safety, who has charge of the state police, and Captain Thomas Bligh, head of the state detectives, were passing through Quincy on their way to Plymouth in connection with the case when they received the information that DuBois had shot himself. The news came through a radio in their police car and had been broadcast by a police station.

The officials hurried to the hospital and waited for an opportunity to question DuBois but he died without regaining consciousness.

The torso was found 18 days after the disappearance of Mrs. Edith DuBois, object of a search by Massachusetts and Westchester county authorities. The medical examiner wishes to compare the feet of the torso with shoes found in the Du Bois' winter home at Tuckahoe, N. Y.

Harry Wilson, arrested early this morning by Officer Ernest Ross on a charge of disorderly conduct, had his hearing adjourned until Saturday morning.

John Bishop of Teaneck, N. J., arrested Tuesday night for public intoxication, was fined $5 by Judge Culloton Thursday morning. Bishop was a passenger in the car of William Whitaker on the night of his arrest when it collided with the auto of Mrs. Clarence Kelly of 144 St. James street.

HILLIG ENCOUNTERS OFFICIAL HEADWINDS

Liberty, N. Y., Sept. 16 (AP).—Otto Hillig, the "Flying Photographer" of this southern New York town, has encountered official headwinds in his projected second Atlantic flight, which was to have started Monday.

Hillig said last night he had received a telegram from his pilot, Roger Q. Williams, who was in Washington, saying: "Washington does not approve of our flight."

Williams added in his message that he would fly to Liberty today and acquaint Hillig with the Federal objections to a flight to Athens, Greece. Hillig last year flew to Denmark in the plane "Liberty," with Holger Hoiris as his pilot.

Egg Auction Ready For Members

At a meeting of the Ulster county committee of the mid-Hudson egg auction, Wednesday night, it was decided to solicit memberships in preparation for the first auction to take place on October 18. A. P. Kaplan of Accord, chairman of the committee, asks that all poultrymen interested in a permanent market for their eggs sign up for membership in the egg auction. A large number of voluntary memberships would save the committee considerable time and effort. The fee is $1 for permanent membership.

The committee in Ulster county consists of Mr. Kaplan, Raymond DuBois, Gardiner; John J. Miller, Kingston R. D. No. 3; Willis Myers, Saugerties; Claude Kieffer, Kingston R. D. No. 4, and Glenn A. Cummings of Napanoch. Information in regard to the auction can be secured from any of the above members as well as at the Farm Bureau, 74 John street, Kingston.

The auction is being organized to establish a steady market for well graded, high quality "Hudson Valley eggs." This trade name will be used on all eggs sold. Only members can sell eggs on the auction. Members can sell all or any portion of their eggs. No contract to sell any given number of cases is made. This enables all those poultrymen who have a private trade to continue supplying that trade.

Every member will be given a lot number in his first consignment. This will be his permanent number under which all his eggs will be sold. At the request of the directors the G. L. F. will conduct the auction and guarantee immediate returns.

The charge for selling, inspection, financing, etc., will be 45 cents per case. When the volume increases to 500 cases per week, this charge will be reduced to 35 cents. Auctions will be held every Tuesday and Friday. Delivery days will be Mondays and Thursdays.

The committee has received numerous inquiries for trucking the eggs to Poughkeepsie. The bids thus far vary from 10 to 15 cents per case. Therefore the total cost of transportation and selling will not be over two cents per dozen. Truckers interested in hauling the eggs are requested to get in touch with any member of the committee.

There are six successful auctions operating in New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania, but this will be the first one to be organized in New York state.

The producer is expected to grade his own eggs. The better the quality and the most uniform cases will receive the best prices. The grades to be sold are New York Fancy, Grade A and Producers large and mediums, also Pullets and Pewees. The large sizes should average 24 ounces per dozen. The mediums should weigh between 20 and 24 ounces per dozen, pullets from 18 to 20 ounces and pewees below 18 ounces per dozen. These are the standards set up by the New York State Egg Grading Law for retailers. The producer will help himself get a better price if he will grade his eggs accordingly, and make less trouble for the retailer.

The Farm Bureau is planning a series of meetings early in October with Prof. Botsford of Cornell, to discuss egg grades and grading with all poultrymen, as well as the proper handling, to place the best quality eggs possible on the market, thereby creating a demand for "Hudson Valley Eggs."

National Guard To Hunt Mrs. DuBois

Plymouth, Mass., Sept. 16 (AP).—A Plymouth company of the Massachusetts National Guard was expected to search the vicinity of Great Herring Pond today for the body of Mrs. Edith DuBois, missing woman who, police believe, has been slain.

Assistant District Attorney John V. Sullivan of Plymouth county last night requested that the National Guard be called out to scour the territory in the vicinity of Great Herring Pond, where the missing woman was living with her husband, Charles E. DuBois, at the time she vanished.

Authorities made plans to contact a man and a woman of Flushing, N. Y., who, Sullivan said, had been seen riding in an automobile with Mr. and Mrs. DuBois on August 10, the last time, as far as authorities have been able to determine, the woman was seen alive.

Major Parties Urge Activity As Leaders Plan For Elections

Washington, Sept. 16 (AP).—A new urge of activity, presaging a whirling finish after weeks of half-motion, has been put into the presidential campaign by the Maine election, the Roosevelt western swing, the renewed discussion of the bonus.

So far as the political generals themselves are concerned, it appears certain that the efforts to be exerted on public opinion from now on will be on a scale as great as the country has seen in any recent campaign.

For the expected redoubling of party endeavor on both sides the Maine election returns are largely responsible. Rejoicing Democrats, thinking that in their Maine victory they sense a distinct advantage everywhere are encouraged to press every opportunity to the utmost. Surprised Republicans have been called upon by President Hoover himself to rally for a "hard fight."

No one can guess at this stage whether sparks from the roaring furnaces of organized party activity will start any conflagrations among the voters themselves.

Word has come to party leaders from many sections that a large body of the people are silent and apathetic. In general, neither campaign contributions nor attendance at political meetings shows an average high enough to indicate intense popular interest. Yet in Maine the vote was very heavy, which may mean that the public is thinking and meaning to act, even if it is not talking.

For the moment, most of the outward activity is on the part of the Democrats. Governor Roosevelt, speeding toward the west coast, is asking for the support of the voters of both parties, as he turns from the old subjects of the general depression and prohibition to speak about farm relief, power and railroads. It is the aim of the Democrats to consolidate now if possible, enough western strength to win regardless of what the east may do.

The preparations of the Republicans for an intense October drive in both east and west will bring into action every available party wheelhorse. President Hoover's telegram to Chairman Sanders after the Maine election, asking for renewed effort everywhere, has been followed by a long string of political conferences at the White House. The President's own speaking program, calling heretofore for three major speeches, may be somewhat—but not greatly—expanded.

Whatever the political effect, publication of the bonus eviction report on the eve of the American Legion convention at Portland stirred up a commotion which did not lack for public attention even in a week of commotions.

MORE VIOLENCE IN WESTERN FARM WAR.

Sioux City, Iowa, Sept. 16 (AP).—Violence has flared anew on the Sioux City sector of the farm "war," bringing pleas from citizens for military intervention.

Bricks and clubs were thrown in the latest uprising of farmers striking for higher produce prices when 500 farm pickets last night ambuscaded and routed a group of special deputies near Correctionville.

The ambushed officers answered a telephone call reputedly coming from truckers asking assistance in running the picket lines. Upon finding no trucks, the officers started to return to Sioux City when they were met by the pickets, who threw rocks and clubs at the four trucks in which they were riding.

U. S. SHIPS CAN'T FLY FOREIGN FLAGS IN MOVIES

Washington, Sept. 16 (AP).—Vessels of the United States Navy must not be represented as running under a foreign flag even in motion picture dramas.

Nor may navy personnel impersonate the officers and crews of any other nation.

These are among the regulations compiled by the navy department to govern the cooperation extended by the navy in making movies.

The department frequently makes available its vessels and personnel to movie concerns, but it exercises a rigid supervision and must pass on the completed picture before it can be released.

ECONOMIC EFFECTS OF BRAZIL'S REVOLT UNUSUALLY INTENSE

Rio De Janeiro, Sept. 16 (AP)—Brazil's prolonged civil war has been accompanied by wider economic ramifications than would be likely in any international conflict in South America, excluding Argentina.

Sao Paulo's 7,000,000 people—more than the population of Chile or Peru—in revolt furnished the provisional government a tough financial problem. With more than 100,000 men under arms on both sides, war expenditures have been running into millions.

With little gold in the country, both sides issued large amounts of paper currency, and each promptly repudiated the other's action.

Duration of the effects of the entire affair on business and exchange remains to be seen. With Sao Paulo isolated, its exports halted, the principal source of foreign money to meet obligations abroad was stopped.

Each week of the revolution and Santos blockade meant that 200,000 sacks of Sao Paulo's coffee normally exported remained at home. This intensified the problem of the Paulista surplus, principal bugaboo in the way of eliminating a mountainous carry-over.

French Army Buys Wheat.

Herriot Busy With Three Jobs; Bewails Lack Of Time To Write

By HUDSON HAWLEY.

Paris (AP)—Edouard Herriot, premier of France, "doubles in brass" and then some.

He is not only head of the government, but also minister of foreign affairs, leader of his party and mayor of the highly important industrial city of Lyons.

This last post necessitates many overnight trips to his city and the study there of a heap of municipal problems.

The result is that his leisure is just about limited to the eight hours which he tries to spend in bed every night.

"I receive an average of 20 delegations or individual visitors a day," he complained recently. "I have documents that I must study even in my sleep—or rather go without it. Thank heaven the blissful vacation season allowed me at last to keep up with my jobs."

Herriot has always been a worker. Born a poor boy, son of a captain of the gendarmerie, his schooling was broken by his father's frequently enforced changes of residence in garrison towns. Nevertheless the son qualified for a scholarship that gave him free tuition through the higher university grades, in Paris and elsewhere.

While still in his twenties, he became a high school teacher in rich, industrial Lyons. He so pleased the people there by his personal charm and ubiquitous sympathies that they elected him mayor of the great city athwart the Rhone. That position he has held for more than a quarter of a century.

In the old days, when he had only one position, or two at the most, he used to be able to turn out a book or so a year—literary biographies, historical studies, treatises on economics or municipal government. Those works helped to keep the family pot boiling.

Now, enthroned in his triplicate grandeur, he finds it impossible to follow up his real predilection, that of a writer.

"Have you a book in preparation, Mister President?" a recent interviewer asked him.

"Alas, yes!" he replied, "and a good one, on French provincial life! But it cannot be completed until the senate or chamber throws me out of office."

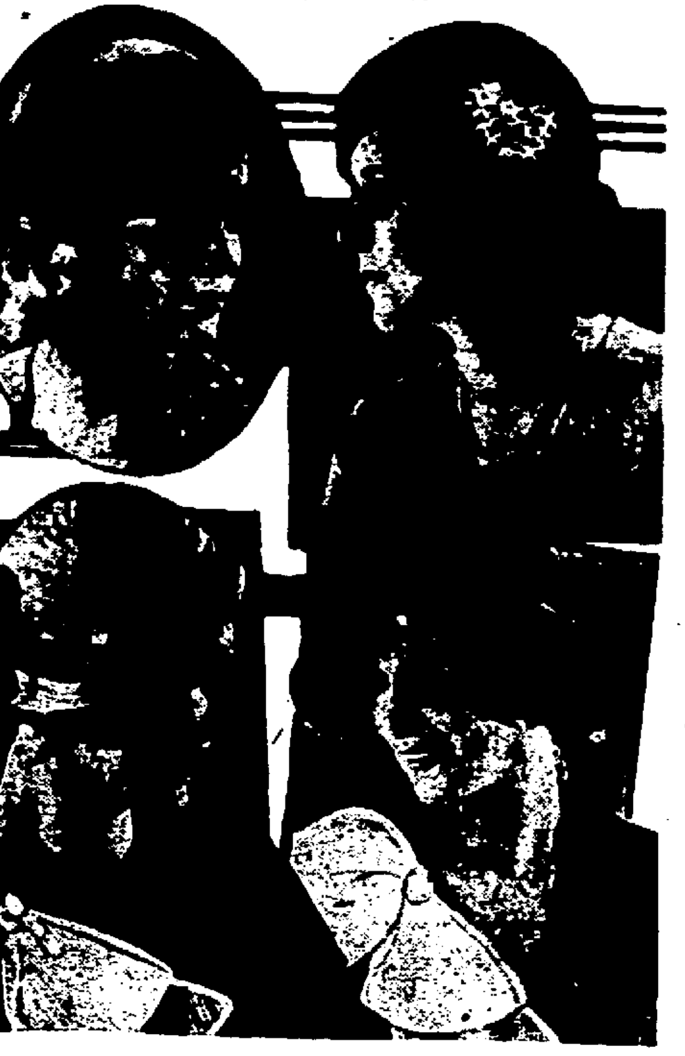
Now the Time for Chic Velvet Hat

By CHERIE NICHOLAS



WOULD'ST add an unmistakable touch of chic and an air of newness to your mid-season and early fall appearance? Here's how! Women keenly alert to those subtle moves which make for good style are finding immediate appeal in the idea. That is, they are topping their flowery chiffons and afternoon prints, their pastel country club frocks and other of their dainty gowns which are too pretty to lay aside until the "frost is on the pumpkin," with perfectly stunning little velvet hats such as all Paris is wearing in restaurants, to theaters and at all smart gatherings.

And if you have already acquired your "first" fall frock or suit, why of course you will be wanting to wear with it one of the new and fascinating velvet chapeaux which milliners are now featuring, so as to stamp your costume with that last-minute look which all covet.

Ruby is the newest color for the alluring little toques which are now gracing the style picture. For that matter, even the newest velvet sailor is apt to be in that flattering shade. However, be assured that black and white are definitely holding their own. That "touch of white" which fashion so persistently calls for is frequently supplied by the little toque or beret of twisted or braided or otherwise draped white velvet. Just to be "nifty," wear with it one of the sprightly wee white veils which flare out like a halo about the head.

Perhaps you are partial to brims. If so you will find waiting to answer your bid and call attractive black velvet capelines. Decidedly shallow-crowned are these newest models. They sure do a lot for any costume in the way of topping it with style. Milliners are placing considerable emphasis on this type of hat for immediate wear.

The new cuffed hats are proving just to the liking of women who seek a change from the cap-fitting little berets and toques such as have been holding the center of the stage so long, and yet do not fancy the wider brims. These little hats with a cuff are smartly in fashion at the present moment. The perky little cuff effect at the top of the picture to the left brings velvet back in truly Victorian manner. In the original it is of violet, but it will prove ever so good-looking in black for general wear.

Just below this model the hat shown is of gray velvet, for gray as a millinery color is high style for fall. The velvet is in this instance handstitched and the crown and brim are made on a stiff wired crinoline frame—a very new and significant move in the realm of millinery, for it has been many a day since hats were worked on a foundation. We forgot to mention that the little violet velvet hat above described is also done over a frame.

The wee toque at the top to the right is conjured of velvet which is stitched to form a checkered effect. By the way, milliners are doing all sorts of fancy stunts with velvet this season in the way of stitching, tucking, shirring and such.

And now we come to the concluding number in this group—a velvet sailor, than which there is no more important type forespoken for the coming months. The model shown is a very conservative one. Some ultra sailors have amusingly shallow crowns with narrow brims worn tilted over one eye.

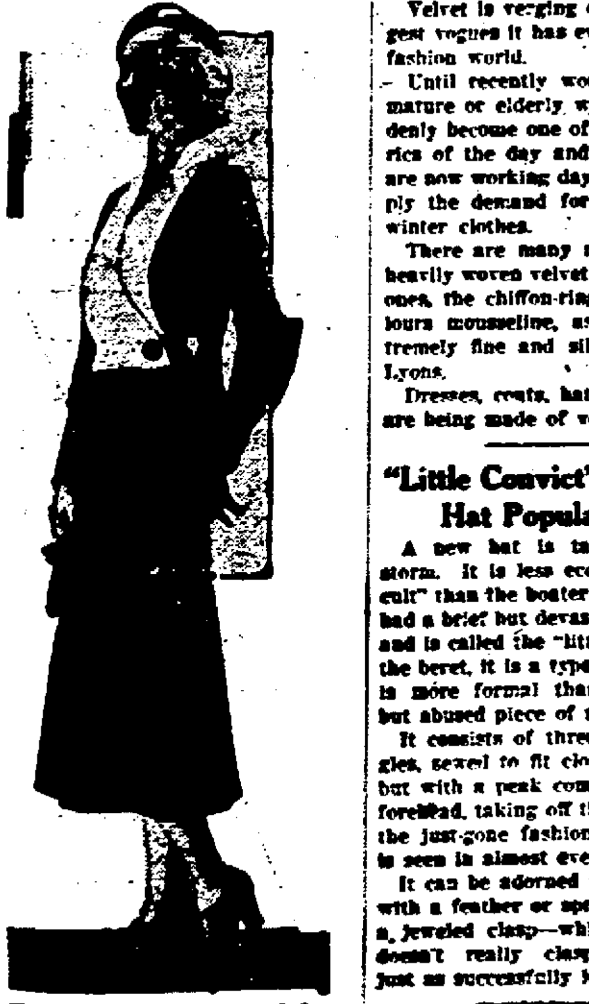
BUTTONS UP BACK

By CHERIE NICHOLAS



This frock of black corded st wool buttons up the back, which is exceedingly modish thing for it to do. It has other equally as outstanding style features—its sleeve, for instance, which is very smartly designed with its buttoned flap at the elbow. Its white waffle angora detachable front is another clever touch. Of considerable style importance also is the fact that shiny accessories are worn with this dull-finished knit outfit. The buttons, the belt and the shoes all shine forth in effective contrast to the somber black. Patent leather belts with patent leather shoes are regarded as being in high style for fall. The shoes this young woman is wearing are side-laced patent leather and suede oxfords of the high-cut version.

PREDICT VELVET WILL BE POPULAR

Velvet is verging on one of the biggest vogues it has ever enjoyed in the fashion world.

Until recently worn mainly by the mature or elderly woman, it has suddenly become one of the smartest fabrics of the day and French factories are now working day and night to supply the demand for coming fall and winter clothes.

There are many new varieties, the heavily woven velvet and the soft light ones, the chiffon-ring variety and velours mousseline, as well as an extremely fine and silky sort made at Lyons.

Dresses, coats, hats and even shoes are being made of velvet.

"Little Convict" Is New Hat Popular in London

A new hat is taking London by storm. It is less eccentric and "difficult" than the boater or pillbox, which had a brief but devastating popularity, and is called the "little convict." Like the beret, it is a type of skull-cap, but is more formal than that charming but abused piece of millinery.

It consists of three strips or triangles, sewed to fit closely to the head, but with a peak coming down on the forehead, taking off the bare look that the just-gone fashions have had, and is seen in almost every material.

It can be adorned very successfully with a feather or spray of flowers, or a jeweled clasp—which, by the way, doesn't really clasp anything—and just as successfully left quite plain.

Shirred Prints

Printed sheer costumes are shirred so that the print is most charmingly blurred. Sometimes the whole frock is shirred and the jacket is left unshirred—so that there is a pleasant contrast of design between the two.

Crochet Hats

Turned hats of Irish and simple three crochet mesh are replacing the brim[illegible] crochet caps that everyone was wearing earlier in the season.

Rough Cottons

Not so [illegible] are these new tweedy looking cottons especially smart for suits and [illegible] top coats but they make [illegible] and beach coats.

SOBER PARTIES.

An actress who got tired of the Great American Cocktail Party and swore off a year ago waxes eloquent, in a newspaper interview, on the merits of temperance drinks. Her about-face was not a matter of conscience but common sense. She confesses unblushingly that orangeade is now her favorite tipple, and ignoring its vitamins, she praises it as an aid to social brilliancy.

To be sure, it drives a lot of people away. And for the most part, they seem to be people that she has wanted to drive away. No longer does she have a mob crashing a party that was meant for 10. No longer does she find lighted cigarettes lying on her piano. No longer are her guests disorderly, incoherent and rude.

Gin, she explains, destroys people's esthetic sense. They are more charming when sober, under the gentle urge of food and drink that stimulate more gently and leave no headaches or regrets. Quite a lot of this sort of talk is heard nowadays. It may be that when and if legal liquor returns, there will be no such general rush for it as many imagine.

HARD TIMES IN FRANCE

France, which for so long seemed immune to business depression, is getting it. Deflation started there last year and is now bad and growing worse. Production of coal, iron, steel, textiles and other basic commodities is away down. Car loadings have dwindled. The government faces a huge deficit. The country's hoarded gold is not saving it. Only agriculture still remains somewhere near normal and offers a haven for the refugees of industry. The back-to-the-farm movement there is stronger than in America. Yet agriculture itself is beginning to slip.

So even France could not dodge the misfortune sweeping over the world. Yet France is not expected to suffer so much as Britain, America and some other countries. As an American economist observes: "Because the French people are inclined to be moderate, because inflation and overproduction and credit abuses did not carry so far as in the United States, it is reasonable to suppose that the processes of deflation will not be as painful as they are at home."

One good thing, at least, for France and for the rest of the civilized nations, may come from this experience. Governmental poverty may reconcile the French to a degree of disarmament and international co-operation which they have not yet been willing to accept.

HOME-MAKERS WHO "WORK"

What is a home-maker? The U. S. Census Bureau defines her as "that woman member of the family (not counting hired housekeepers) who is responsible for the home and family." In the past the Census Bureau has set her down under the head "no occupation," an annoying classification to any women who do most of their own housework, much of the family sewing, all the family mending, nursing and general domestic odd jobs.

In New Jersey, Census figures show, 12 per cent of the more than 900,000 home-makers are gainfully employed outside the home. That means doing double duty, looking after the family in "leisure" time and adding to the family funds by working at anything offered, from being waitresses in restaurants to carrying on professional work as lawyers and doctors.

There is a strong movement all through the country today against gainful employment for home-makers, particularly for home-makers who have husbands still holding down jobs. In times like these, there seems to be justification for such [illegible]. In normal times, however, the [illegible] toward [illegible] will be resumed where it was checked by the depression.

MID-OCEAN SERVICE STATION.

It looks as if the South Atlantic is to have regular air transport before our North Atlantic, probably because crossing is ordinarily easier there. Here is a striking bit of news about it:

The Deutsche Lufthansa, a German aviation company, preparing for air service between British Gambia in Africa and the island of Fernando Noronha off the coast of Brazil, has chartered the North German Lloyd liner Westfalen to serve as a floating transport and refueling station in the middle of the ocean. The liner being too small for airplanes to alight on the deck, her engineer is rigging up a "drag sail" which, towed astern of the ship, will quiet the rough water so that planes can alight safely and be hauled aboard. The device is now being thoroughly tested in the North Sea. There should be romance in tending that service station.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

A STITCH IN TIME.

A family of four—father, mother and two boys, 16 and 15 respectively—apparently free from any ailments, were discussing health one day. The father was working every day, the mother doing her housework without difficulty, and the two boys were attending school regularly.

The father thought he was not hearing as well as usual on the telephone; the mother thought that she also was not hearing as well and that she was a little more tired in the afternoon than she had been; one boy, recently recovered from flu, found that he got "dizzy" when he played in the school yard; the other boy had no comment to make about himself or the others.

It was decided that despite the fact that none of them were ill, they would go to the family doctor and be overhauled from head to foot.

What did the family doctor find?

He found that the hearing of the father was less than 50 per cent in the left ear, and was only about 75 per cent in the right ear. The trouble with the hearing in the left ear was because of a chronic throat condition which interfered with air getting up through the mouth to the middle ear, and in the right ear it was due to hard wax lying against the ear drum.

The doctor made the ordinary test of the eyes and found that his glasses did not give him the proper vision for reading or distance.

The doctor found that the hearing of the mother was being interfered with in both ears simply by hard wax; and the tiredness was likely due to a little pus pocket between the gum and one of the front teeth.

The dizziness or faintness of which one of the boys complained was due to too much exertion, too soon after the attack of flu.

In the other boy nothing wrong was found in eyes, ears, nose, throat, heart or lungs, but his shoulders were "round" and his head was "drooping," thus spoiling his entire appearance, aside from "crowding" the lungs and preventing proper breathing.

I believe the lesson is quite plain. You go about every day and because you are not really sick may be satisfied to put up with little "inconveniences," or a little "tiredness," whereas if you would let your family physician spend one whole hour on you, you would not only enjoy "real" health, but prevent simple but unknown ailments from becoming a serious menace to health.

Jail Inmates Consume 42,000 Aspirin Tablets

Fort Worth, Texas.—Evidently there were plenty of headaches in the Tarrant county jail last year—the 1931 drug bill reveals that 42,000 aspirin tablets were purchased for the 125 inmates. But the prisoners also received supply of other kinds of medicine along with the "sleepers." The bill shows 11,000 purgative tablets, 175 pounds of salts, and 221 pints of castor oil were consumed.

Nothing Venture

by Patricia Wentworth

SYNOPSIS: Nan is hurt and angered to find her husband, Jervis, doubts that she has told the truth about her family to Rosamund Carey, Jervis' former fiancée, and Rosamund's malicious friend Janet Tetterley. Goaded by his attitude, unnerved by fear for his life, Nan flings at Jervis the story of her unhappy childhood as the almost forgotten child of Nigel Forsyth, the famous explorer.

Chapter 22

A CURIOUS SURPRISE

JERVIS shrugged his shoulders at Nan's passionate outburst.

No, he thought, Nan can't pay for what Rosamund did to me when she threw me over. Neither could he forget it; no longer was it possible to trust Rosamund's sex.

To break the tension, Jervis turned abruptly away and, picking up the volume of Who's Who, went over to the shelf and put it back in its place. He stood for a minute or two looking at first one book and then another and whistling softly to himself. The tune bothered Nan because she couldn't put a name to it.

She would have given the world twice over to undo what Rosamund had done to him. She wondered whether she would ever be able to undo it. Just now, when his eyes had laughed, she had seen the bitterness and the hardness that were under the laughter. It hurt more than when he frowned. He frowned easily, and it meant very little; but when he laughed, her heart ached for him.

He turned away from the bookshelves and came back to the window. His face wore a bantering look.

"Well, I'd like to know just why you married me, and just what's at the bottom of all this nonsense about Robert Leonard. A deaf and dumb idiot can see that you've got it in for him—and I must say I'd like to know why."

Nan tipped her head back, met his eyes, and said seriously,

"He's trying to kill you."

"Yes, you said that before—he rode me down in a taxi, and he arranged for the bridge over the ravine to rot in the spray. Come, you know, it's not good enough! But what I do want to know is why. What has poor old Leonard done to be cast for the part of first murderer? It seems a bit far-fetched, don't you think? And it would interest me quite a lot to know what put it into your head."

"It's no use my telling you," said Nan—"you wouldn't believe me."

"I'm afraid I shouldn't. But you're probably of a very hopeful disposition—you might try."

She shook her head.

"It wouldn't be any use."

"How can you tell if you don't try?"

A smile just touched her lips and was gone again.

"You're never going to believe anyone again. It would be waste of time."

"You might convert me."

"Could I, Jervis?"

"I don't think so, Nan. But then that makes it all the more exciting for you. There's always an off chance."

She had been standing looking up at him; now she came a step nearer.

"He is trying to kill you."

"How intriguing! Have you any notion why?"

"It's something to do with the money."

"I'm afraid that's where you slip up. Poor old Leonard's not in the running—he wouldn't get a penny. It's distinctly to his interest to let me linger on and touch me for an occasional $30 bill."

"Does he do that?" (That meant that he was hard up—perhaps desperately hard up.)

"He does," said Jervis. "So you see I'm more use to him alive than dead."

"If he killed you—" said Nan. She stopped, because it was a dreadful thing to say.

"Yes—do go on. If he killed me?"

"Rosamund would get everything."

He gave her a sharp glance. So she was working round to his will. She evidently didn't believe in letting the grass grow under her feet.

He nodded.

"You seem to know all about it."

"I typed Mr. Weare's will."

"Well?"

She looked at him in silence.

"You'd got as far as 'Rosamund would get everything.' Aren't you going on?"

"No—it's no use," said Nan.

Jervis laughed.

"Rosamund gets everything—so in case Robert Leonard should feel an overpowering urge to remove me and marry Rosamund, it might be a good plan if I put temptation out of his way by making a will in your favour. Is that it?"

Nan felt as if something in her must break. She didn't know whether it was her pride or her love. There was a feeling of anguished strain.

She said, "No!" with a little cry.

"Unfortunately my hands are tied, so I can't oblige you. I can make a settlement on my wife, but the estate and enough to keep it up on goes to Rosamund under my grandfather's will, failing a direct heir."

"I know that."

"Then I don't quite see what you were driving at."

She came quite close.

"He is trying to kill you," she said. "I don't know why—I think it's because of the money. Perhaps he wants to marry Rosamund—I don't know. But I know that he's trying to kill you."

He looked down at her with hard amusement.

"You're very serious over it."

"I am very serious."

"And why? Don't you want to be a widow?"

"No," said Nan, very pale.

Jervis laughed outright.

"What an odd taste, my dear!"

Before she knew what he was going to do, he took her by the elbows, swung her off her feet, and kissed her on the mouth. He was still laughing when he put her down. She was as white as a sheet and trembling violently.

"Why, what's the matter?" he said.

She turned and ran out of the room.

Jervis stood frowning at the door. What a to-do about a kiss! He threw up his head and laughed. He didn't know why he had kissed her, and he certainly didn't know why she had run away.

One could not have expected a shrinking delicacy from the girl who had offered herself to a stranger for ten thousand dollars and a settlement of five thousand a year. No—to do her justice, she hadn't asked for five thousand a year; she had only stood for her ten thousand down.

He stepped over the low window-sill and walked up and down the terrace smoking, until the sun went down into a rose-coloured haze.

Monk found him there watching the sunset. He presented a long envelope and a message.

"Mrs. Weare has gone to bed with a headache, sir—and these are the papers you wished to see."

Jervis took them to the study.

So she had gone to bed with a headache. He wondered if he had made her cry. A faint tinge of triumph just touched his mood. He had lived ten years in the same house as Rosamund, and he had never seen her weep.

Nan's lips had trembled when he touched them—she had trembled from head to foot and had run away—she had looked as if she was going to cry. Perhaps she was lying in the big four-post bed crying her heart out. He had a picture of her in his mind, lying there in the shade of the red curtains, with her head on her arm and her face hidden, weeping scalding tears. For some obscure reason the picture gave him a feeling of pleasure.

He tore open the long envelope which she had sent him. There were half a dozen letters on thin foreign paper, and a slanting pencil scrawl signed Nan. It said:

Here are my father's letters—some of them. Please let me have them back.

There was a blister on the corner of the paper. It looked as if a drop of water had fallen there.

A pathetic story stirs Jervis. Tomorrow, to make a great change.

At the time of his coronation, it was decided that King Henry IV of France should be punished to cleanse him of his past sins. The practice of flagellation, punishment to expiate one's misdeeds, was common. The whipping was administered by priests. To spare the royal personage of any pain during his punishment, it was agreed that he could be whipped by proxy. So it was that the lash was applied to another man—a "double" substituted for the king.

The ancients believed that floods were caused by evil spirits in the rivers. The spirit, then, must be punished for causing the river to overflow and flood the surrounding country. It was the practice of Egyptians and Romans to whip the rivers and in that way punish their evil spirit. The remedy did not solve the problem of flood control, but it did allow the injured parties to give vent to their feelings.

Pansy, a pet pony belonging to the Brigham family, attended school faithfully for 22 years before she was graduated—and then only from the eighth grade. A diploma and certificate of attendance were prepared and presented to her with proper ceremonies. Pansy took the Brigham children to and from school.

The late Lord North of England followed the sport of hunting for 80 years, from the age of 15 until his death at 95. For 50 years he rode to the hounds, but an injury prevented him from riding in later years. For 30 years he followed his hounds in a wagonette.

A contest is being held in which the students are making lists of world renowned artists, the pictures of whom are posted in the Chamber of Commerce windows. There are fifteen prizes available in concert tickets to the winners, in order that they may have the privilege of hearing some of these popular artists in Kingston this year. After school each day large numbers of students have congregated outside the office and much interest is being shown. YOUTH CONFERENCE HELD BY NORTH RIVER PRESBYTERY

The North River Presbytery, the official organization of the Presbyterian Church for this district, will sponsor a three day Youth Conference at Elliswood, Clintondale, on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, September 23, 24, 25, 1932. The Rev. William C. Swartz, pastor at Pleasant Valley, N. Y., is chairman of the Presbytery's committee. The theme of the conference will be "Youth and The Church" and is suggested by Matt. 16:18 "I will build my Church."

The aim of the conference is "To deepen the religious purposes of our Young People, and to make possible its expression and realization in the home church." The North River Presbytery seeks to further this aim through the Conference at Elliswood where fun and fellowship are mingled with instruction and inspiration.

The delegates will meet in groups as they did last year, but this time they will all be considering the same topics. They will stay with the same leader and work out the trend of their study together. In order that the groups may stay upon somewhat common ground these milestones have been suggested to guide their thoughts.

1. What kind of a church has been built?
2. What kind of a church will we build?
3. How will we build our Church.

Any young person between the ages of 16 and 24 is eligible for the conference if he or she is attending a Presbyterian Church, Sunday school, or Young People's Society. Registration fee has been cut to minimum, and is considerably lower than last year.

Young people in the Presbyterian Churches of Kingston should register through their pastors, the Rev. H. Goodrich Gates, or the Rev. J. N. Armstrong, Jr., before Tuesday, September 20.

Donovan's Plane Was Disabled

Colonel William J. Donovan, who spoke before the Rotary Club in this city on Wednesday, had a rather exciting time before he reached New York Wednesday night where he had an engagement for 9 o'clock. After speaking to members of Kingston Rotary he was scheduled to speak at Windham. In order that he might keep his date in New York that evening he chartered a plane which was instructed to fly to Tannersville where the colonel was to board the plane for New York city.

Arriving at Tannersville the pilot of the machine apparently did not like the landing field for after circling the field he headed back to Kingston and grounded his plane at the Kingston Airport. Word was sent to Col. Donovan at Windham that the plane had landed in Kingston. Instructions came to fly the plane to Windham and land at the field there. The pilot again took to the air and headed for Windham. Arriving there he circled the field a couple of times and then attempted to put his plane down. He overshot the field and landed near the middle of the field and in order to prevent damage to his plane by over-running the landing he applied the brakes too hard and the plane nosed over, breaking the propeller.

His plane out of commission temporarily Col Donovan was compelled to make the return trip to New York by car.

Don't worry! The World War was won despite a million fool suggestions, a couple of congresses, and a political presidential campaign.

Teacher (pointing to the map)—Now, Willie, when you stand facing the north you have on the right hand the great continent of Asia. What have you on your left?

Willie—A wart, but I can't help it teacher.

You're getting along when you can remember the time when it was considered a luxury to be born in a hospital.

Don't Quit.

When things go wrong, as they sometimes will,
When the road you're trudging seems all up-hill,
When funds are low and debts are high,
And you want to smile but you have to sigh,
When care is pressing you down a bit,
Rest if you must, but don't quit;
Life is queer with its twists and turns,
As everyone of us sometimes learns,
And many a failure turns about,
When he might have won had he stuck it out.
Don't give up, though your pace is slow—
You may succeed with another blow.
Often the goal is nearer than
It seems to a faint and faltering man,
Often the struggler has given up,
When he might have captured the victor's cup,
And he learned too late, when the night slipped down,
How close he was to the golden crown.
Success is failure turned inside out—
The silver tint of the clouds of doubt,
And you can never tell how close you are,
It may be near when it seems afar;
So stick to the fight when you're hardest hit—
It's when things seem worst that you mustn't quit.

Son—Dad, what's influence?

Dad—Influence, my son, is a thing you think you have until you try to use it.

When it comes to punishment the electric chair is nothing compared to trying to again live within one's income.

Young Clerk—Could you learn to love me, do you think, Josephine?

Gay Young Stenographer—Well, Napoleon, you never can tell. I learned short hand in six weeks.

A young man fell into a state of coma but revived before his friends could bury him. One of them asked what it felt like to be dead.

Young Man—Dead! I wasn't dead, and I know it because my feet were cold and I was hungry.

Friend—But how did that make you sure?

Young Man—Well, I knew I wouldn't be hungry in Heaven and my feet wouldn't be cold in the other place.

A young woman may marry without parental consent if she is 18, but she can't vote until she is 21, indicating that it takes more brains to vote than to manage a home and children.

Pastor—You say you cannot get along with your husband? People must learn to bear and forbear. Did you ever try heaping coals of fire on his head?

Young Wife—No, I never did. But I've tried boiling hot water.

Father (to son who has just spoken to a pretty girl)—Do you know that girl?

Son—Know her? Why I'm engaged to her.

Father—Heavens! Are you serious about her?

Son—Oh, no. Just a passing fiancee.

RESIDENTS AGAIN ABANDON BLEAK ISLE OFF SCOTLAND

St. Kilda, Outer Hebrides (AP)—This lonely island, only seven miles in circumference, has been left to the sea birds again.

The inhabitants were evacuated several years ago, but a few returned this summer. When winter neared, they went back to Scotland and Neil Gillies, resident representative of the Earl of Dumfries, tarried only long enough to make the two habitable buildings safe from winter storms.

Bleak St. Kilda may be made a permanent bird refuge—thousands are here now.

REV. EDITH E. DEWEY APPEALS FOR THE DEACONESS' WORK.

The following appeal is from the Rev. Edith E. Dewey, the only woman ordained elder in the New York Conference, a former pastor at Esopus:

In times like these, the church and its institutions which bring the most valuable help in life and the greatest opportunities of service, should not be crowded out, but given a real and definite place in our giving. The New York Deaconess' Association of the Methodist Episcopal Church has a Home for Deaconesses at 1175 Madison avenue, New York city, Camp Brentmere for Business Girls, Canondale Rest for Sick People, and Huyler Rest Cottage for Mothers and Babies.

Every day you may see these workers from early morning until late at night, busy in the offices, in and out of homes, teaching classes, directing religious, educational and social activities—in the hospitals, clinics and dispensaries. The Deaconesses are doing tremendous relief work these days and are asking for food, fruit and vegetables, canned goods and money for their institutions and for people many of whom never before knew what it was to want, and now do not always know where the next meal is coming from. They are doing sacrificial service and are asking aid to carry on.

The work is hard. Body and mind often grow weary, for the calls in Deaconess' work are as numerous as the cries of the human heart for understanding and help. It is distinctive work, whether in the offices of the churches and institutions, out on the evangelistic field, or nursing the poor. Whether as pastors, teachers, nurses, workers among the Italians in Harlem, or the Russians on the lower East Side, these workers carry the Gospel in character and service, in all the wide and varied fields, a company of faithful, trained and consecrated women. They make it possible to enforce the Methodist Episcopal Church at a critical time, a company prepared and doing valiant service. Will you help them to carry on?

Conference vouchers are given—for a barrel of potatoes, a five dollar bill, a crate of canned goods.

There is no section in the great city where your gift will not work for good.

FORK TIDBIT TOO MUCH FOR SWORD SWALLOWER

Melbourne, (AP).—Fred Lowe, Australian sword swallower, gulped down a fork and decided to retire.

A difficult and dangerous operation was performed to recover the cutlery.

After a long period "at liberty" he got an engagement and it was lack of practice, he said, which caused the accident. He had the fork well down his throat when an out-of-training gulp sent it beyond reach.

Loaded Gun in Vatican

Vatican City (AP)—Excavations near the Vatican gardens brought to light a loaded cannon which lay buried since the Garibaldian wars of 85 years ago. It was charged with shot ready for defense of the Vatican walls.

Bridal Couples Shun Altar.

Adelaide, Australia, (AP).—Hard times are cutting down the number of church weddings in Australia. Economical couples prefer the simple civil rites and registry office business is picking up.

WEST SHOKAN.

West Shokan, Sept. 14—Miss Mariam Davis of West Shokan Heights was a caller Wednesday afternoon at the home of Miss Lydia Scott of Shokan.

M. Floyd Terwilliger of Ashokan, well known insurance man, was a business caller here on Wednesday.

The Anstats residence at North Main Street Heights is rapidly nearing completion. The location of the colony that is becoming established here, is an ideal one. There are still a number of attractive building sites available.

On Monday evening next Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Burgher will be hosts at a card party given at their home, proceeds for the benefit of Clinton Chapter, O. E. S., Kingston. Masons and Star members with their friends are cordially invited.

Harry Jordan of Roxbury, with his friend, Mr. Brady, were social callers here Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hinkley and daughter, Olive, of Kingston were entertained over the week-end at the home of Mrs. Hinkley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Early North, of North Main street.

On Saturday, Steward Bell of Poughkeepsie, accompanied by his wife and daughter, Helen Rebecca, visited his mother, Mrs. Arza Bell, of Sunrise Cottage on North Main Street Heights. Another member of the visiting party was Mr. Porrell, also of Poughkeepsie.

Mrs. Early North is spending a few days with her brother and sister, Henry Eckert and Mrs. Annie Bartlowe, of Kingston.

Martin J. Every of Traver Hollow was a caller in West Shokan Heights Wednesday afternoon.

Truckman Arthur Christiana of Ashokan is hauling gravel from the Jackson farm near Krumville, for the building of William V. Colange's reserve reservoir. The construction is in charge of foreman Marshall Roosa with a crew of local workmen employed.

On Wednesday and Thursday a needed top dressing of shale was given the bumpy approach to Dwyer's Hill at the boulevard intersection. The turn from the mail boxes was filled in earlier in the season and is a notable improvement, as in wet weather this low spot was suitable for a duck pond.

Mrs. Elizabeth Dembois and daughter, Miss Vera Dembois, who are spending a two-weeks' vacation at the Davis residence, were entertained as dinner guests at the home of Mrs. Addie Kelder of West Shokan Heights.

Mrs. Sylvester Jones of West Shokan Heights was a caller on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Watson Bishop.

Before school opened the other morning, Mrs. Ruth R. West, local fourth term teacher, while pulling down one of the window shades, it suddenly gave way and struck her in the face with considerable force. Her glasses were broken and she also received a few minor lacerations about the face. Luckily no serious complications have resulted. The children were keenly sympathetic and to Mrs. West's surprise and delight maintained excellent deportment all that day.

Sam Caccalina, gardener at the Watson Hollow Inn, is keeping busy this week with apple tree borers working in the orchard.

Hershel Geyer was a caller at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson of Main street on Sunday.

First Mention of Gorillas

The word gorilla is perhaps African but more than 2,000 years separate its first appearance from its present use. In the Fifth or Sixth century B. C. a Carthaginian navigator named Hanno sailed beyond the Pillars of Hercules along the west coast of Africa. He wrote in Punic a record of his adventure, and among the wonders he described were some hairy savages called gorillas. His work was translated into Greek and later into several European languages, so that the word became familiar to naturalists. In 1847 it was applied to the giant ape which had recently been described by explorers.

"Ocean of Atlas"

The name Atlantic as applied to the ocean between Europe and Africa on the east and north, and the Americas on the west, comes from the Greek word Atlas, which referred in Greek mythology to a divinity having charge of the pillars which uphold the heavens. Atlas was supposed to stand at the spot where the Strait of Gibraltar now lies, holding up the sky, and because the Atlantic ocean was reached through this strait, it was called the Ocean of Atlas or the Atlantic ocean.

The Lion in Scripture

Balaam, the prophet, desirous of foretelling the future dignity of Israel, compares the nation to "a lion and as a great lion, who shall stir him up?" (Numbers 24:9). (Deuteronomy 33:20). "What is stronger than a lion?" said the Philistines to Samson (Judges 14:18). So might we go through the Scriptures, were it necessary to prove the high opinion held by its writers of the power and kingliness of lions.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

By The Associated Press

Avila, Spain. The divorce of onion and garlic has been decreed by the Spanish republic. For centuries two neighboring towns called Ajo (garlic) and Cebolla (onion) got along with the same common council and secretary, but now they have been separated.

New York—Lon Warneke's flyer in cattle hardly netted him a fortune, but it got him a plethora of pets. Last winter, in Mount Ida, Ark., home town of the Cub pitcher, it was considered the smart thing to buy scrawny cattle and fatten them for the spring market. Warneke bought 300, but, come spring, he said he could find no market. "Well," he said, "I guess I'll have to keep them for pets."

Newark, N. J.—The late Mrs. Frederick Hartman's will has been rejected by probate officials because of a mistake. Mrs. Hartman and her daughter, Frieda, made their wills at the same time four years ago. The documents got mixed in signing—Mrs. Hartman signed her daughter's will and vice versa.

Ontario, Calif.—Fraulein, a racing pigeon who saw some sights in her day, is dead. She is said to have been captured in the Argonne drive when she was dropped by parachute to a German officer behind the American lines. Lieut. George Herbert brought the bird to America.

Bloomsburg, Pa.—Ezra Allen Polk, 15, died rescuing his father's cows when the barn caught fire. He saved all the livestock, then collapsed and died of burns.

Milford, Conn.—Prof. Manley Hudson, noted law teacher of Harvard University, must appear in town court for allegedly driving on the wrong side of the road. "I've just been in Europe," a policeman quoted him, "where every one must drive on the left side. I haven't readjusted myself to the American custom."

Czech Farmers Strike.

Bratislava, Czechoslovakia (AP)—In protest against ruinously low prices for produce, farmers near here came to town on a Sunday and dumped wagonloads of cucumbers and red peppers in the streets.

Broadcast Dutch Book.

Rotterdam. (AP).—The government station here recently broadcast a complete book to the Dutch Indies. The 26000 words kept four transmitters busy seven hours.

ELLENVILLE FACED WITH WATER SHORTAGE

With water in Lake Maratanza so low that pumping has been resorted to in order to send the water from the lake into the canal which feeds the village mains, all use of hose has been suspended in Ellenville pending rainfall which will replenish the village water supply. Due to the prolonged dry spell water in Maratanza is down to eight feet. Normal is 22 feet. The North Gully reservoir is altogether dry.

Kingston: "The Last Mile." Taken from the stage play of the same name this dramatic thunderbolt has been recreated on the screen with all the force of the original. It is the story of the men who are in the death house of a great prison, awaiting their turn to die. Their thoughts, their actions, their fears and bravado are all forcibly brought before an audience. It isn't an enjoyable bit of entertainment, but it is real and vital in what it attempts to teach. Members of the cast include Howard Phillips, Preston Foster, Noel Madison, and George Stone.

Orpheum: "Is My Face Red" and "Mason of the Mounted." Helen Twelvetrees and Ricardo Cortez are together again in the first feature, a story of a newspaper columnist who seeks scandal at the expense of decency. Fast moving drama, with a melodramatic ending. "Mason of the Mounted" offers Bill Cody and Andy Shufelt in a story of the northwest.

Broadway: "New Morals for Old." Myrna Loy, Jean Hersholt, Lewis Stone, Robert Young, Margaret Perry, and Laura Crewes are members of the fine cast in this story of modern youth and the changing customs youth is undergoing in this day and age.

Ritz: Zulicka, Physic-Astrologist and on the screen, "Forbidden Company."

Fashion Swings Victorian

Turn back the pages of the Family Album to see what fashion has in store for us this fall. Stop among the pictures dated in the Gay Nineties. Behold the fashions of today! Leg o' mutton sleeves . . . close little lace collars and rippling jabots . . . shallow crown sailors . . . fur tippets, etc.

But Fashion has gone Victorian the modern way, and we have all of these fashions newly interpreted in the 1932 manner. Even the leg o' mutton sleeve is more modern and picturesque in its latest version.

In coats, Victorian details are to be found not only in sleeves with their quaint gathers at the shoulders and fullness above the elbow, but also in their cinched in waistlines and wide-top silhouettes. Fur epaulets, too, are reminiscent of that period known as the Mauve Decade. And the colors are enough to delight the most Victorian-minded . . . plum shades, deep burgundies, mocha browns, and deep greens.

An old-fashioned sleeve makes a new-fashioned gown, so look for the Victorian note in sleeves as a true mark of chic. Graceful leg o' muttons that taper from a long tight cuff to a flattering fullness around the shoulder, balloon sleeves, pouff sleeves. And look for soft little high collars and frilly jabots . . . other tributes to Victoria's chic.

Chile Recovery Speeded Up As Election Nears

By HAROLD P. BEAMAN

Santiago, Chile (AP)—The government is intensifying its efforts to have the nation in good economic condition before the October 30 elections, in which voters will select delegates to a convention which will write a new socialistic constitution.

Continuing the government program, which previously had set September 15 as the approximate date for the elimination of unemployment in Chile, the government has declared "war on all economic fronts against the crisis."

Government Backs Campaign

By a campaign of propaganda, advertising, motion picture films and mass meetings, the government expects to cut down unemployment to a minimum, increase production to a figure approximating "good times," and bolster public confidence in the peso, the latter an admittedly huge task.

Labor Minister Juan Rosetti, one of the president's closest advisers, has initiated a drive for higher salaries for employes of all classes.

In itself, the move is viewed as an official admission that the peso has slumped so far, that present wages are insufficient in the face of the increased cost of living.

Cabinet Backs Speculation

The entire cabinet is assisting the new price control board in an endeavor to eliminate speculation in prime necessities. There has been some hoarding by middlemen, and unless stocks are released there are indications they may be seized. Daily prices for meats, bread and other foodstuffs are set by the board.

The mint has placed in circulation several hundred thousand of the new one-peso piece. Much smaller than the old peso, and containing far less silver, this new coin is designed to eliminate hoarding of silver money, for intrinsically it is worth little.

Hundreds of thousands of the old heavy silver peso are out of circulation, because they are of higher intrinsic value than the present street rating of the official peso.

Exchange Furnishes Problem

A difficult problem is solving the exchange question. So little foreign exchange is available that imported prime necessities cannot be obtained except by barter or by cutting into what gold reserve the Central Bank still holds.

Some wheat has been purchased outright in Argentina, but the government wants to exchange wines, nitrate and copper hereafter for all imported products.

Sweden Sees Wales As British Trade Guardian

Britain's Super-Salesman

These three pictures show the Prince of Wales as northern Europe will see him on both formal and informal occasions next month when he visits the Scandinavian countries on another of his trips to boost England's foreign trade.

OTTAWA PACTS IN BACKGROUND OF ROYAL TOUR

By ELMER W. PETERSON

Stockholm (AP)—The Prince of Wales' tour of Scandinavian countries in October, in connection with a traveling exposition of English industry, finds quick interpretation here as a move by England to safeguard her trade interests in this section of Europe.

What England seeks especially, it is assumed, is to ward off ill-feeling that might possibly result from the Ottawa conference agreements.

Little Alarm in North

Fortunately for England, the Scandinavian states, with the possible exception of Denmark, experienced no undue alarm while the Ottawa conference was in progress. The money exchange restrictions set up by Denmark, now dispensed with, were an indication of that country's concern.

In general, however, there was a strong feeling that England would be duly appreciative of its yearly volume of trade in this direction.

With the results of that conference still to be learned in detail, England has seized upon the psychological moment to assure northern Europe that her intentions are of the best.

Among other things England possibly fears that the moral effect of the Ottawa conference may interfere with her efforts to regain the Scandinavian coal trade.

Loss of that trade during England's coal strike in 1926, proved a setback from which British coal exporters have yet to recover.

Poland Seizes Market

In 1925 Sweden imported 3,660,263 metric tons of coal, including 2,669,654 from England and only 85,538 tons from Poland. Then came the strike and Poland took prompt advantage of it. Last year Sweden, out of a total coal import of 4,534,623 tons, took 2,612,596 from Poland and 1,065,166 from England.

It is such matters as this which make England desirous of cementing her friendly relations with Scandinavia.

England has several distinct advantages in trade negotiations. The British empire is the outstanding market for the timber, woodpulp, and paper that come out of Norway, Sweden, and Finland.

The British domain is Denmark's bread and butter, for that little country last year sold 64.6 per cent of its exports to England, mostly dairy products.

In Sweden, however, there is a growing agitation to buy less from Germany as that nation cancelled her trade agreement with Sweden two months ago.

Watch Soviet Dumping

At present Denmark has reason to worry the most in the matter of preference tariffs within the British empire. Dairy prices are discouragingly low and it is doubtful where the Danish dairy farmer can absorb an increased tariff, especially in the case of eggs and bacon. This situation also applies to Sweden to some extent.

For Sweden, Finland and Norway the fear of a handicapped timber competition with Canada is overshadowed by a hope that England will see fit to stop "dumping" of timber by Russia. This would give the three Scandinavian countries an excellent chance to complete with Canada, even with a preference tariff. It would widen the British market tremendously.

Kiwanis Play Will Be Given Oct. 11-12

A comedy, "A Woman's Way" staged by the [illegible] Players of New York city will be presented for the annual Kiwanis entertainment on October 11 and 12 in the high school auditorium, according to plans of the Kiwanis Club announced at the weekly meeting Thursday noon at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Each year the Kiwanis Club stages an evening of entertainment to raise funds to carry on the dental clinic and milk fund activities for the year, and in cooperation with The Freeman produces a "booster edition" of the paper, one section of which is devoted to Kiwanis activities and advertising.

In past years the club has furnished between [illegible] and [illegible] half pints of milk per year to children in the schools. The club has also maintained the dental clinic with the aid of the public school system. The club hopes to be able to continue these activities for the coming year, and the entertainment will be given with this object in view.

Tickets this year will sell at a top price of $1.50 instead of $2.50 as in former years when the entertainment was given at the Broadway Theatre. This change in price was suggested because of the condition of the times, and while the calibre of entertainment will not be lowered the presentation of the play on two successive days is expected to make up the difference.

The following committees were named Thursday to carry on the work of acquainting the public with the entertainment, the club's projects and the "booster edition".

General chairman—Howard St. John.

ANNUAL CLAMBAKE OF LEGION ON SUNDAY.

The sixth annual American Legion clambake will be held Sunday at 3 o'clock at Torino's Inn, South Ashokan boulevard. Robert C. Iseman, the chairman of the committee, states that the menu will be exactly the same as in former years, which, together with the service and the beautiful setting in the grove along the beautiful Ashokan, has made the American Legion bake famous hereabouts. However, he points out, this year the price of tickets has been reduced. The new reduced price is given in an advertisement elsewhere in tonight's Freeman, which designates the bake as "the gastronomic masterpiece of the year."

Laddies are cordially invited to attend Sunday's bake. There were more ladies at last year's bake than men.

Tickets are on sale at the American Legion Building. Those wishing reservations are asked to make them not later than Saturday night.

If it rains, the bake will be held in the commodious dining rooms at the inn.

Last year, on account of the depression, few clambakes held hereabouts were largely attended. However, the American Legion clambake was a most successful affair from all angles. Those enjoying an occasion of this kind are therefore urged by the committee not to miss the Legion clambake. Reservations have been pouring in to an extent which indicates that it takes more than a mere depression to keep folks away from the annual palate-tickling American Legion clambake.

COMFORTER FESTIVAL WILL CLOSE TONIGHT

Again the large Comforter Hall was filled to capacity last night. A larger crowd than on the opening night came to enjoy the Mardi Gras and Festival.

On account of the large crowd of last evening, the committee will again have to purchase more articles in order to take care of the crowd expected this evening.

The entertainment given last evening was greatly enjoyed. Through the generosity of the Universal Electric & Radio Shop of this city, the entertainment was broadcast from Station CMC (Comforter Men's Club) from the third floor of the Comforter Hall.

Kenneth Deyo impersonated an Hawaiian belle and was loudly applauded as he went through the intricate motions of an Hawaiian dancer.

Uncle Josh as usual was having his troubles with his wife in not being able to control his antics at the different booths.

The refreshment booth was largely patronized. Many comments were heard about the hot dog and sandwich booth. Forst's products being used at this booth were wonderfully served in festival style.

Tonight being the last night of this festival will be farmers' night and there will be fun galore for those who attend, according to the committee in charge.

The Rev. Mr. Hunt of Kingston will have charge of the Sunday morning service, instead of the Rev. Theodore Thielpape as stated previously. The Rev. Thielpape will preach the following Sunday, September 25. The service will be on standard time.

Fable of Revising and Reforming Football

By GEORGE ADE

(© Bell Syndicate.)—WNU Service.

IT CAME about that many Colleges awoke to Life in the Fall and loud Yelps echoed up and down the leafy Streets which had been somnolent since June. Local Cops began to wear worried Looks. The dealer in Hot Dogs bought a new set of Tires for his Smoke-Wagon. Every College widow put away her light Summer Reading and started in to take Setting-Up Exercises in Prospect of another long Season of clinching and wrestling in the Modern Dances.

Within the cloistered Precincts of Doolittle College, which is on the Shores of Lake Pasquaby, the Members of the Faculty were anxiously scanning the Registration and wondering if all the Good Friends of the School were in Health or whether one or two might pop off and leave enough Coin to build a new Physics Lab and an Assembly Hall.

At the very same time nearly all of the Young Men were out at the Practice. Most of them were haggard with Anxiety and the Brows were furrowed like Wash Boards. They were sizing up the Onions, hoping to discover among them an embryo "Red" Grange. All of them were extremely embryo but not one of them looked as if he could take the Ball in any Direction except by General Agreement. So they cursed the Alumni for not digging up and sending in a lot of Giants who lived on Red Meat and growled like Police Dogs.

Doolittle had been getting along for Years on half-portions of Hope. Every September a few vagrant Expectations would spring up in the Hearts of the Faithful and it would be announced that the Eleven was getting ready to massacre the Normal School and Patchmore Business College, to say nothing of the State University. Before Thanksgiving the Hospital would be full of bunged-up Warriors, nursing fractured Limbs and pitiful Alibis.

Where There is Life There is Hope.

Doolittle was too proud to play High Schools and too puny to stop Truck Horses who played in the Conference and that is why the Trustees and Others often had debated as to the Wisdom of doing away with Intercollegiate Sports altogether and permitting the Student Body to individually acquire Courage and Strength by going into the Woods to hunt Botanical Specimens.

Doolittle was sure in a Bad Way when it began to talk about quitting Cold on Football. Nobody ever heard of an Institution getting ready to cut out Athletics until after it had been booted all over the Lot and then heaved over the Fence. Those who say they are going to stop playing Football, have not, as you might say, played it. They have figured as Punching Bags, and this Thing of being kicked in the Face for the Glory of Alma Mater while all the Rooters are weeping, is one Job which can get to be awful tedious.

Notwithstanding which the Grads and the Kids alike were for hanging on. They figured that some Day a Miracle might happen and the Heavens would open, dropping down on the Campus an End who would kick the Egg a Mile, and two Halves who were good for Two Seconds in their Suits, and two Ends who were always on Top of the Ball instead of looking in the Opposite Direction, and a Line which would be a Stone Wall instead of a Strip of Tissue Paper.

The whole Lay-Out didn't look any too Jake early this September when the Squad lined up. To add to the Horror of the Situation, on that very day it was suggested to the Faculty by Prof. Philo Guthrie, of the Department of Umpacicology, that certain Local Rules should be enforced, so as to rob the Sport of all Roughness, Bloodshed and Assault with Intent to Murder.

The Suggestions embodied in the Resolution presented by Prof. Guthrie are given in Detail herewith as they are to be submitted to the Intercollegiate Association next Summer with a very powerful Backing from the Pacifist Element.

Nursery Football.

The first of the Guthrie Rules is that no Student shall be permitted to play on the Team unless he has studied so hard that he will be too weak to hurt any one. Also, each Contestant is required to wear his Horn-Rim Glasses, because, in nearly every State, it is a double Offense to sock a man wearing Spectacles. If the Members of the Opposing Team adopt Brutal Tactics they can be arrested by Constables and taken before a Justice of the Peace and, while they are absent, the Home Team can score at Will and Put the Game on Ice.

To avoid all the scrambling and piling up, which so often results in Bruises and Injuries, it is proposed by Dr. Guthrie that, at the Opening of Play, the Umpire shall think of a Number between 1 and 50 and each of the Captains shall guess at the Number and the one who makes the better Guess shall be permitted to move the Ball 10 Yards into the Opposing Territory, and carefully place it on the Ground without Interference.

After that, each Team shall designate a Player to step forward and answer certain Questions regarding the League of Nations, these Questions to be previously prepared by a Joint Committee of Instructors, representing the two schools. The Side giving the more lucid and satisfactory Replies shall be permitted to execute a Forward Pass of 30 Yards after the opposing Team has retired to the Side-Lines.

Once more the Elevens line up in the usual Formation and each Captain shall count off his Men, using the familiar Verse:

Onery, Owery, Ickery Ann!
Fillicon, Pholicon, Nicholas John!
Queevy, Quay,
English navy,
Stinkium, Stankium, I-O-U Buck!

The Player who is pointed out on the Word "Buck" shall then be known as "It" and he shall face the Player similarly selected by the Opposing Team and try to stump him both in Greek and Calculus. It shall be the Duty of the Referee to name the Winner in this Scholarship Contest. If the Team given the Award already has the Ball then the Player known as "It" shall be permitted to plant the Ball back of the Goal for a Touch Down. If the opposing Team holds the Ball then the Winner is given the Ball and the other Team is penalized 30 yards.

Taking the Kick Out of the Game.

In order to vary the Tactics and retain some of the former Excitement, the next Play shall be known as the "Tag Play." The Captain of the Team holding the Ball shall order it given to the Player who did not miss one Recitation during the preceding Semester. He will be given an Open Field and Permitted to run with the Ball, but if any opposing Player overtakes him and slaps him on the Back and says, "Tag," he will lose the Ball unless he has his Fingers crossed at the time. If he has failed to cross his Fingers, the Whole Thing counts just the same as an Off-Side Play and he can retain the Ball only by answering three Psychology Questions which may be propounded by any of the opposing Players.

If any Player uses hard Language or actually takes hold of any opposing Player he shall be retired and put into a Compartment on the Side-Lines known as the "Bone Yard" and kept there until the Captain of his Team answers 5 Questions in Chemistry, without laughing.

To avoid Confusion, it will be assumed that each Touch Down is followed by a successful Kick for Goal.

Upon resuming Play after a Touch Down all of the Players, except the two Full-Backs, shall join Hands in a Circle and the two Full-Backs shall be blindfolded and put into the Center. While the Players are singing "London Bridge is falling down," the Full-Back whose Team has been scored against must catch the Full-Back of the other Team and call him by his First Name within 30 seconds, in which Case his Team will be given the Ball in the Center of the Field. Otherwise, the Ball goes to the Opposing Team on their own 20-Yard Line.

And so on. All Spectators will be required to remain absolutely Quiet during the Mental Tests.

It must be explained that the Guthrie Revised Rules are still in the Rough, but it will be seen that they are going to debrutalize a very rough Sport as soon as they are approved by all of the Athletic Associations.

MORAL: To prevent overcrowding a Stadium, make it Lady-Like.

Movement to Develop Modern Farm Building

Evolution of modern farm building types, especially adapted for the different regions of the country, is in prospect as a result of the regional farm - structure - planning movement which has been inaugurated in the corn belt this year, the United States Department of Agriculture says.

The program, which will co-ordinate the work of state agricultural engineers in a specific region with the research work done by the federal bureau of agricultural engineering, will also tend to eliminate the possible duplication of plans for farm buildings which frequently takes place when states work alone. The object is to develop the types of farm structures which are best suited for the region in which they are used.

The movement to study farm structures on a regional basis is considered a significant step in the efforts of the agricultural engineers of the department to work out a system for the interchange of plans, specifications, and other information about farm buildings, thus making the research in each state available to all the others.

Last Occupied Land?

Polynesia was probably the last habitable area to be occupied. The Polynesians, although of similar features, language, customs, religion and traditions, are not a pure race. They are supposed to be mainly of Aryan origin, with infusions of other bloods, and to have come from Asia by way of the Malay peninsula and Java, and thence from island to island by various routes in their migration eastward, northward and southward and to have reached Hawaii, probably from Samoa, about A. D. 500.

Reading Speed

Six words per second, or about four and one-half hours for a standard size book, is good average reading speed, and most people can aspire to reach this seemingly extraordinary rapidity. It is the brain, not the eye, which determines the speed of reading. The eye cannot move steadily, but must move in a series of jerks, with pauses between. These pauses are needed to see the printed page clearly, but still more to give time for the meaning to be grasped.

Legion Not Backing Beauty Contest

It has come to the attention of Kingston Post, American Legion, that some letters issued as invitations to judge a bathing beauty contest at Spring Lake Sunday afternoon were written on Legion stationery and purporting to be backed by the Legion.

"A number of prominent individuals in the city and county have been invited to judge this contest," said Legion Commander Sam Mann, "and at least some of these invitations have been written upon Kingston Post stationery. The Legion headquarters has received replies to some of the invitations. I want to make it plain that the Legion is not sponsoring this contest, has no interest in it, and that the stationery was surreptitiously obtained, without authority, from the Legion build ing and was used without of the local post. Kingston Post is not backing this affair, neither it backed several similar affairs the past which have been credited it. The Legion is making this ment in fairness to individuals have been requested to particip and whose invitations have been tended on Legion stationery."

"On the Side"—A Fashion Ruling

New York—Tunics are being ted about, and for the most part rably. They offer themselves ently, and when fur-bordered, Paquin uses them, have been wel- ed with a whoop and a yell by of us who are all for encour- ng "something different." Make feathers instead of fur if the is for evening.

One invariably gets to thinking Russia when there is mention fur-bordered tunics, and what these and the numerous side that are hereabout, one es to think about it. Nothing to button front or back that possibly open off side—or diag- ally. True, dresses open down the k, in some instances, but this can dly be said to be a season's high- ht, while the side opening of ats, dresses and jackets is recur- ent and consequently a highlight.

If, after due consideration, you are decided to throw yourself to e middle or late Victorians, do not erlook the fact that the prim, one- tton gloves are going to help you ke the appropriate gesture. Fine des and antelope, or glace kids, th metallic clasps, or pearl, or eted crystal buttons, are dainty ishing touches. In this connec- on it may be well to mention that er gloves for evening are back, d that muffs have outgrown their minutive barrel-like proportions. here are fabric muffs as well as fur es, and fabric muffs may be pleat- or shirred, also fur-bordered.

There seems so much to watch st now that one may need to be tioned to watch sleeves, since it by one's sleeve and one's neckline at one's frock is dated. Of the eral important trends, the one at bears the closest kinship to the g-o'-mutton types may bear closest tching. One finds that in many the smartest woolen and heavier k frocks there is a tendency to cut e sleeve in one with the bodice, s doing away with the armhole. e practice in general is that when re's an armhole, it's a big one d made more important by rimming it with fur, or in some way calling attention to its ample proportion.

RED VELVET AND FUR

Copyright, 1932, by Fairchild

The formal ensemble is developed in wine red dull velvet, the bodice top in Venise with cuffs of sable dyed kolinsky. The jacket type of costume continues, fur being on the bodice—not on the jacket.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Many belts are made with the idea of an accessory ensemble of foot- ear or bags. Velvets are well thought of for afternoon, one of the most ective being Bruyere's "Stepladder," a corded working of the lattice a, with beveled metal bars as spacers.

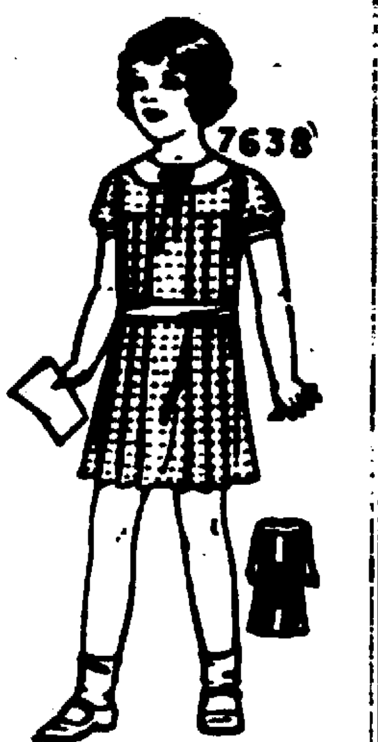
Rib felt makes some sports belts designed to accompany bags.

The fur bodice is variously interpreted, carried into oversleeves, or to capelets, or modified to plastron suggestion.

Fur and Fabric Alliances

Furs provide the outstanding ans of trimming, appearing on es as well as coats and suits. portant fabric and fur combina- ns include gray Persian lamb on the wine tones and on gray; brown Persian lamb and leopard on green; white Persian lamb on black wool; black Persian lamb on black. Natural lynx is cited for trimming green; copper fox for the copper brown fabrics, and blue fox with a gray cast on the wine shades.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.



A Simple Frock for a Little Miss.

7638. In this popular model, square yoke portions are lengthened by plaited skirt portions—the plaits forming panels at center front and back. A boyish collar trims the neck. There is a choice of sleeves. A wrist length model, finished with a band cuff, or a short band-finished puff sleeve. A tie belt holds the dress at the waistline. Dotted swiss, gingham, linen or cotton prints are suggested for this style.

Designed in 4 sizes: 2, 4, 6 and 8 years. Size 4 if made with puff sleeves, will require 1⅛ yard of 32 inch material. With long sleeves it will require 2¼ yards. Collar, tie belt and cuffs or bands of contrasting material will require ⅜ yard 32 inches wide.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 15c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Kingston, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

RED SHIRT STYLE STARTED BY BIARRITZ JAUNT.

Biarritz, France (AP).—Edward Albert, Prince of Wales, whose clothes are men's "style hints" for Europe, launched a vogue for bright colors while he was vacationing here with his brother, Prince George.

The heir to the British throne appeared in a dozen different hued "Lacoste" shirts, cut on a design named for the French aviator with a sports collar.

A bright red was his favorite. With it he wore gray knickerbockers, red socks and white brogues.

Soon after his arrival he discarded his straw sailor for a beret. Prince George, however, dashed about the town bareheaded.

When not on the golf links the princes were generally to be found in the swimming pool, where they took daily lessons from an American instructor. For these plunges the Prince of Wales wore a bathing suit of red, blue and brown.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Sept. 16 (AP).—The stock market shook off early nervousness today and turned upward, led by the railroad stocks which moved up 1 to 2 points.

An early selling test failed to penetrate the lower levels of the recent trading range, and encouraged bulls to new purchases. Trading, however, was unusually quiet.

After early losses of a point or more, rails moved forward early in the afternoon, bringing gains of 1 to 2 points to Santa Fe, Union Pacific, New York Central, Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio.

American Telephone sold a point or so below yesterday's close, but gains of 1 to 2 were recorded at times by U. S. Steel, Allied Chemical, Dupont, Case, Harvester, American Tobacco B, Westinghouse and Corn Products.

While current traffic reports of railroads show a decline in freight car loadings for last week compared with the preceding week, due to the Labor Day holiday, there was growing belief that the week-end statement due tomorrow would be a relatively good showing.

Despite a denial that the Reconstruction Finance Corp., had passed on applications from railroads for loans with which to buy large amounts of steel rails, the report persisted in Wall Street that some roads would shortly place orders for that purpose. The steel industry furnished scattered evidences that recent gains in production rate were being maintained, although there has been some slackening in the past two days in the Youngstown district.

Crowd Wondered When Railroad Man Flunked

"The young folks talk of thrills and thrills," said the veteran brakeman, "but I know of no greater one than swinging on to a fast freight as it's passing by.

"On our run it is the custom for me to drop off at an upstate station and run inside to jot down important data about my train, which keeps moving while I do a double-quick to catch the nearest car. I had done this hundreds of times without blinking an eyelash until one day I grew 'crowd conscious' as I saw a throng of week enders waiting to board a delayed local on the opposite track.

"I knew they were all watching to see how I made the flying leap, but as I ran across the platform it seemed that my body 'froze.' Of course, I grabbed for the side rail, but the hand slipped as if it had grasped an eel while the speeding train threw me aside.

"Guess I never will forget the thrilling moment—as I walked away, bruised and dirty in front of an audience that seemed amazed to see a railroad man who had flunked!"—New York Sun.

Bolivia Country That Is Wholly Landlocked

South America's only landlocked and coldest country, although wholly within the tropics (mean temperature 49 degrees Fahrenheit), is named for Simon Bolivar, the great revolutionist.

Bolivia's lofty Lake Titicaca is doubly distinguished. From its shores came the first potatoes, and in its midst lies the Isla de Sol, believed to be the cradle of the Inca civilization. Hence the region is a favorite hunting ground for buried Inca gold. Though none was ever found, several searches, quaintly documented, are constantly under way.

Better prospects have Bolivia's unemployed, to each of whom asking the government grants the gold-washing rights of five acres in the La Paz field.

Famed for their condors, eagles, ostriches, vultures and storks, Bolivia's forests are the home of the useful llama and alpaca. Underfoot lurks the bush master, a deadly rattler undistinguishable from the carpet of dead leaves.—World's Work.

Political Cachet

The direct primary as a means of selecting political party candidates for public office had its origin in Meadville, Crawford county, Pa., on September 9, 1842, when the local Democratic leaders could not agree on a proposed ticket. To avert a split, these leaders worked out a plan of nomination by means of a party vote. This primary election was the first ever held in the United States. In 1882 the system was discarded, but in 1881 local Republicans adopted a primary based on the earlier plan. Today—"for better or for worse"—the direct primary is used by almost every state and in reference books it is frequently spoken of as the Crawford county system.

Deceitful Kiss

The term "Lamourette's kiss" signifies a kiss of peace when there is no peace; a kiss of apparent reconciliation, but with secret hostility. On July 7, 1792, the abbe Lamourette induced the factions of the legislative assembly of France to lay aside their differences; so the deputies of the Royalists, Constitutionalists, Girondists, Jacobins, and Orleanists, rushed into each others' arms, and the king was sent for, that he might see "how these Christians loved one another"; but the reconciliation was hardly made when the old animosities burst forth more furiously than ever.

When Shark Attacks

I have just been shown some excellent action photographs taken at the Sydney aquarium which have helped to clear from my mind what must be a common misconception about the habits of the tiger shark. I had always imagined that in seizing its prey the tiger shark turned belly upward. The photographs, which showed the shark in the act of eating the dangling carcass of a sheep, proved that he keeps his natural position and that his leap is rather a downward than an upward sweep.—London Morning Post.

Machinery Cleans Fish

The iron chink was first used in 1903 at Fairhaven (now Bellingham), Washington. It removes the head, tail and fins and opens and thoroughly cleans the fish ready to cut into pieces for the cans. By the use of these machines the dressing gang is almost entirely done away with, dispensing with 15 to 20 men. This same machine is now so arranged that the fish after dressing are also "slimed," that is, the thick mucus covering the skin removed, and the inside of the fish cleaned.

Telephone Ideas

Previous to the invention of the telephone in 1876 by Alexander Graham Bell, others had predicted the possibility of transmitting speech by wire, but had not hit upon a practical method. Charles Bourseul, a Frenchman, published an article as early as 1854 in which he described a method that he believed might be used to transmit speech electrically. An Italian named Antonio Meucci, about 1857, sought some way of transmitting the voice by wire. Neither was successful.

Germany Plans To Build War Vessel

Berlin, Sept. 16 (AP).—The admiralty today ordered the keel to be laid October 1 for Germany's third "pocket battleship," to be known for the present as "Armored Ship C."

The order followed closely the dispatch of a letter yesterday to Arthur Henderson, president of the World Disarmament Conference at Geneva, which was unofficially reported to contain notice that Germany would sit in the disarmament deliberations no longer unless her claims for arms equality were recognized.

The new battleship was budgeted during the regime of former Chancellor Heinrich Bruening as part of the government's program "for replacing obsoletes."

American Families

Greatly differing estimates have been made as to how many descendants an American settler would have at the tenth generation. Donald L. Jacobus, the New England genealogist, is of the opinion that the total number of descendants of any one Colonist of the period from 1630 to 1660 amounts to over 200,000. J. Gardner Bartlett, from examination of 10,000 families of New England, estimates 78,125 descendants in eight generations.

Ancient English Family

The English family of Throckmorton still own land in Throckmorton, Worcestershire, that they in all probability owned in 1066 when the Normans invaded England; and at Coughton, Warwickshire, which is the principal residence of the family, they have owned the land in lineal descent since 1409, and in the male line of the Throckmorton family since 1449. Part of the present house at Coughton was built prior to 1409.

Flicker Persistent

Frequently birds not accustomed to raising more than one brood of young in a season will replace their eggs several times if they come to grief before they are hatched. W. B. Barrows, in his "Michigan Bird Life," tells of a flicker from whose nest all but one or two of the eggs were taken, that kept on laying until 30 or more eggs had been deposited. Normally the flicker deposits from six to ten eggs in a season.

Mrs. Burhans was a member of the First Reformed Church of this city and of the Ladies' Aid Society of that church, and also was a member of Clinton Chapter, No. 445, Order of the Eastern Star. She was deeply interested in all religious work and was a hearty supporter of the church and its various activities. King of the Clouds

Fashionable Ladies of Equatorial Africa.

Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNU Service.

RUWENZORI, one of the world's queerest mountain masses, has been scaled by a Belgian expedition entirely in Belgian territory, according to reports from the Belgian Congo in which a part of the mountain lies. The feat, not hitherto accomplished, required a climb of more than 16,000 feet of difficult, trailless jungle and rocky slopes.

Ruwenzori is unusual in its very situation. It lies almost immediately under the equator, surrounded by rank, steaming tropical forests and sun-drenched plains covered with tall elephant grass; yet it pushes its peaks up to eternal snows. Nowhere else are there comparable heights under the equator, rising from the heart of a continent. The Andes of Ecuador, relatively close to the coast, and the mountains of the island of New Guinea are the closest competitors.

Weather conditions do their part in contributing to the strangeness of this African mountain mass, and in throwing an almost literal veil of mystery around it. The peaks are hidden to observers from the plains and forests by clouds and fog except at rare intervals. As a result, the definite existence of the mountains was unknown to Europeans until 1864 when Sir Samuel Baker, while exploring Lake Albert, saw "a blue mountain to the south." His observation went unverified until 1887 when Stanley saw the peaks and made known the fact, for the first time, that they were snow-capped. It was not until more than a decade later that the snow line was first reached; and the crests were not attained until 1906 when the duke of the Abruzzi led his expedition to the top.

The name, Mountains of the Moon, is believed to have arisen from a mistaken translation from Arabic; but it has fitted well into the atmosphere of mystery that surrounded Ruwenzori for centuries; and it has a figurative justification because of the weird appearance of the mountain slopes. The relatively few white men who have made the arduous climb have all noted the impression that they had blundered into some alien world. The combination of excessive moisture, altitude and equatorial sun has produced a unique vegetation that in many ways is utterly fantastic.

Vegetation Is Extraordinary.

After emerging from the dense tropical forests of the lower slopes, a climber feels like a Lilliputian visiting the meadows of Brobdingnag. He walks among parsley plants nine feet high, "bird-seed" three times his height, and heather plants, relatives of the low Scottish shrub, that have expanded into great trees 70 and 80 feet tall. To add to the weirdness, colored mosses—brown, yellow, green, white and red—are all about under and overhead. They grow in huge cushions that encircle the limbs of the heath trees like giant mushrooms impaled on a skewer. The unearthly appearance is heightened usually by fog, through which the strange growths loom dimly; and there is a continual drip of water from limbs and moss clumps. The way often leads through swamps and muck up to one's knees.

Above the heath forests, on less swampy ground, giant lobelias cover large areas, sending their spikes up to twenty feet or more. All about are a variety of weeds, grown almost to the magnitude of trees. Further up are thickets of bamboo through which progress is extremely difficult. The highest slopes, just below the snow line, are covered with a thick growth of everlasting flowers.

Except on its lowest slopes Ruwenzori is uninhabited, and above the tropical forests there is not much animal life. The soggy heath forests are almost devoid of animals, birds and insects. On other parts of the slopes, where sparse animal life is found, it forms a queer assortment: a few small mountain antelopes; leopards that prey on them; hyraxes, which are harelike conies; fruit-eating bats with a "wing-spread" of two feet; and a few birds and insects.

The name, Ruwenzori, was selected by Stanley as the most common among a large number of native designations. It has been interpreted as meaning "King of the Clouds" and "Rain-maker."

Really a Mountain Range.

Ruwenzori is not a single mountain, but a "pocket-size" range. With its foothills it is approximately 60 miles long and 30 miles wide. The naming system that has been followed is rather complex. Topping the mountain mass are six explored groups of snowy peaks, and a few other heights not yet climbed. Each group is given a name as a mountain, and each peak is then separately named. From north to south the snowy mountain groups which have been climbed are Emin, Gessi, Speke, Stanley, Baker and Luigi di Savoia, each named for an explorer of Ruwenzori itself or of neighboring portions of Africa. Mount Luigi di Savoia bears the name of the duke of the Abruzzi. Mount Stanley is the highest of the six snow-capped groups. All four of its peaks—Margherita, Alexandra, Elena and Savoia—are more than 16,000 feet high, and exceed by several hundred feet the peaks of the neighboring groups. Margherita peak forms the crest of Ruwenzori, with an altitude of 16,816 feet above sea level.

Numerous small glaciers extend down from the snowy peaks to about 14,000-foot level, and from them trickle many streams. From whichever side the drainage comes, it finds its way into the surrounding lakes and rivers and flows, through Lake Albert, into the Nile. Ruwenzori thus fulfills the ancient tradition: it is the "Mountain of the Moon" on whose white crests Egypt's life-giving river is born.

The portion of Ruwenzori lying north of Mounts Emin and Gessi has never been climbed. In addition to making a survey of the western slopes of the entire range, the Belgian expedition plans to climb the peaks of this northern region and to obtain definite information in regard to their heights.

Odd Facts About the Equator.

While Ruwenzori's snow has been a popular "hard to believe" subject, there are other facts about the world's hot line that are, perhaps, equally as strange.

For example:

The equator crosses no deserts.

The equator does not touch continental Asia.

Less than one-fourth of the equator traverses land.

The equator cuts Africa nearly in half, traversing the middle section of Kenya, severing the northern third from the Belgian Congo and bisecting the tongue of French equatorial Africa which, with Angola, nearly squeezes the Belgian Congo off the Atlantic coast.

In the 2,300 miles across equatorial Africa there are no deserts but torrid jungles, some parts of which are so canopied by trees interlaced by vines that only pencil-like rays of sunshine penetrate. In this region the traveler meets with naked, black, kinky-haired tribesmen, and such unfriendly beasts as wild elephants, lions and hippopotamuses.

Just below Ruwenzori's western slope is the bailiwick of the Bambute pygmies, shy, diminutive folk of the jungles, and beyond is the domain of Bantu tribes, some of whom relish human flesh. The Masai, among the world's fiercest natives, inhabit the regions to the east of the mountain.

Between the western coast of Africa and the coast of South America, the equator crosses no land. In the mouth of the Amazon it traverses Mexiana island and then plunges into 2,000 miles of jungle land, almost as impenetrable in places as the jungles of Africa.

South America's Jungle.

Equatorial South America is the land of Indians of yellowish and reddish hues with straight hair which is cut as though soup bowls had been applied to the natives' heads as guides for barbers' scissors. The largest animal is the tapir, and ant eaters are abundant.

At the eastern base of the Andes, the equatorial traveler meets the Jivaros, natives who are proud of their art in shrinking human heads to the size of an orange, with the hair and skin intact.

From their hot jungle homes, the Jivaros can see the snow-capped Andes of Ecuador and western Brazil. Quito, capital of Ecuador, nestles in the Andean hills, about fifteen miles south of the equator.

The equator begins its trans-Pacific "flight" by crossing the Galapagos islands and then makes a long jump to the East Indies where it traverses Celebes, Dutch Borneo and Sumatra, missing Singapore, the nearest point of continental Asia by only 60 miles. These regions are inhabited by brown-skinned natives, some of whom show traces of Mongolian, Hindu and Malayan blood.

From Sumatra westward, the equator touches no land until it strikes Kenya, East Africa.

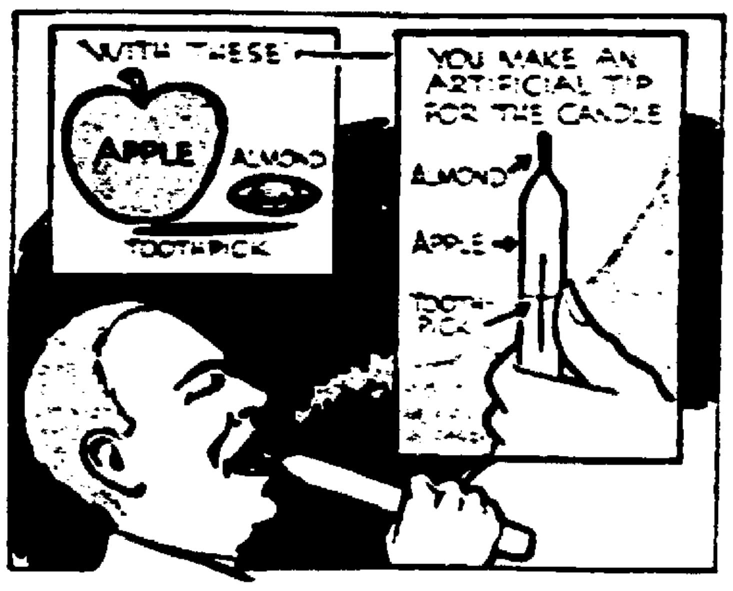
TRICKS of MAGIC EXPLAINED by Will L. Lindhorst

TELLS HOW TO EAT A CANDLE AND ENJOY IT



A white candle, the top of which is cut off, is used in this trick, and you must prepare an artificial tip for the candle in this manner: Cut a portion of an apple and shape it until it resembles the candle. Stick one end of a toothpick halfway into this portion of apple, and fasten it to the candle by shoving the other end of the toothpick into the candle. Then take the kernel of an almond, cut into it until it is about the size of a candle wick, and stick it into the apple. As the apple and candle are both white, it will be difficult to notice this deception, and when you are ready to demonstrate your ability as a candle eater apply a match to the almond wick and the oil in the nut will burn. When you bite the top off extinguish the flame by blowing softly at the wick, and bite just enough so that you will not bring forth the toothpick which would reveal the secret.

King George Is a Real Sailorman

KING GEORGE of England was trained in the royal navy in his younger days and has never lost his fondness for the sea or his skill as a mariner. He is here seen helping the crew of his yacht Britannia during the Royal Southampton Yacht club regatta at Cowes. The race was won by his majesty's boat.

St. Louis Has Colony of Clay-Eaters

IN ST. LOUIS, MO., there has been discovered a colony of clay-eaters. Their source of supply is an ideal clay mound about which they gather to scoop it up and consume it. They claim that they do not eat it because of hunger but because it leaves a pleasant "tang" in the mouth and is a desirable food. Persons of various ages admit eating this clay and some have done it for years. This particular mound is most favorable because its clay is not gritty. Our photograph shows two youngsters sampling the clay.

Forsts And Taiclets End in A Deadlock; Dispute Ends Game

Did Outfielder Spiegel catch Fritz Bruhn's fly ball in the fifth inning of the Forst-Taiclet game at the Athletic Field Thursday evening? Umpire Carr said no. The Butchers said yes, and thus the game ended. But, of course, the umpire's decision must be upheld, and so it must be. The decision, which caused all kinds of arguments, brought the large crowd, which was present, on the playing field and it was impossible to play any longer. And for the fifth time this season another City League game ended in a deadlock, the score being 4-all.

The hit drove in the tying run of the game and it topped a four-run rally, which was being staged by the Boxmen. It also climaxed a series of arguments and brought to a close one of the bitterest contests in the league this season. These two teams were picked as winners at the beginning of the season and have battled acrimoniously in the four games they have faced each other.

Jim Voelker, Butchers' star pitcher, was the victim of the Boxmen's four-run assault. Up until this time he had allowed but two singles and had not permitted a man to advance as far as second base. Both of the hitters were caught on the sacks and when the fifth inning rolled around only 12 men had faced him.

"Hank" Cragan started the attack by poling a double down the right field line. Schwab followed with a single to left field and Carr dropped another single in the same spot, Cragan scoring. Peters hit a long fly between right field and center field and Spiegel and Mills pulled an Alphonse-Gaston act, the ball rolling for two bases, allowing Schwab and Carr to register. Then the much disputed hit of Bruhn's came. Spiegel misjudged the ball first and then made a leap for it and both ball and player went down to the ground. And the question then arose as to whether he held the ball or not. Peters scored on the play.

Manager Mills scored the first run for the Butchers. He singled to center field and reached second on a sacrifice. Glaser hit to Bruhn and on another disputed play reached first safely, Mills taking third. Robins drove Mills home with a long fly to Stumpf and Dawkins sent Glaser in with a double.

The other two Butcher runs came in the fifth inning. Glaser drew a walk. Robins singled to left field and both runners advanced on an infield out. Tiano singled to left field to score Glaser and Voelker doubled to center field to score Robins.

Phil Peters did the pitching for the Boxmen. He yielded seven hits as did his opponent.

Two-Year-Olds Wait Belmont Park Race

New York, Sept. 16 (AP).—A pot of gold totaling more than $100,000, the turf's richest award, dangled in front of the best two-year-olds of the country today as they awaited the 43rd running of the Futurity at Belmont Park tomorrow.

Not more than 12 horses are expected to start the abbreviated seven-furlong dash but in the field will be W. R. Coe's Ladysman, heir apparent to the throne, and all of his chief rivals.

Happy Gal, Sun Archer, Crowning Glory, Caterwaul and others not so well known are primed for the seemingly difficult task of preventing the Coe speedster from boosting his total earnings close to $300,000.

Tagging Major League Bases

(By The Associated Press)

Hazen (Kiki) Cuyler sat on the bench while the Pittsburgh Pirates absorbed four successive beatings from the New York Yankees in 1927, but it's a safe bet the fleet outfielder will see plenty of service in the world's series this year, assuming the Chicago Cubs win the National League pennant.

As the Cubs drive toward the flag, Cuyler's sensational fielding and timely hitting have been the determining factor in many a game.

Particularly has he been poisonous" to the New York Giants. Almost singlehanded he beat them in two games of a recent series at Chicago and yesterday he was the hero of the Cubs' thrilling, 11-inning, 8 to 7, victory over the same club at the Polo Grounds.

The Giants had rallied to tie the score at 5-5 in the ninth only to see the Cubs blast two runs across in the 10th, but the Giants were far from beaten. The first three men to face Bob Smith in the last half of the 10th singled and Lonnie Warneke was called in to halt the stampede.

He did, but not until Hughie Critz had driven in the tying run with a double on which Joe Moore, carrying the winning run on his shoulders, was cut down at the plate by Cuyler's bullet like throw. Having saved the game Kiki proceeded to win it in the next inning with a home run on Sam Gibson, third Giant pitcher of the day.

Pittsburgh recovered from a brief slump to trim the Boston Braves, 3 to 2, but failed to gain an inch. They still were 5½ games behind the Cubs today, with the schedule growing short. They would have to win all their remaining 11 games while the Cubs were losing six out of 10 to take the pennant.

St. Louis turned up with another brilliant pitching prospect in Ray Starr, young righthander from Rochester. Making his first start for the Cards since early spring, Starr held Brooklyn to two widely spaced singles and won handily, 3 to 0. The Phillies downed Cincinnati, 7 to 4, to make a sweep of the three game series.

The Yankees suffered their first defeat since clinching the American League flag when the Chicago White Sox beat them, 8 to 5. Lefty Gomez was the victim, breaking a seven game winning streak for the Castilian. Walter Stewart, of the St. Louis Browns, came out best in a tight mound duel with George Earnshaw, of the Athletics, 3 to 2.

Cleveland pounded two Boston pitchers for 12 hits, including home runs by Kamm and Cissell, to win their 18th game of the year from the Red Sox, 7 to 2. Kamm also hit a triple and a single. The Detroit Tigers nosed out Washington, 8 to 7, in 10 innings.

THE STORY OF BABE RUTH, RECORD WRECKER

This is the fifth of ten stories relating the prodigious world's series feats of the one and only Babe Ruth. Nearing the end of his career, the Babe this year will make his tenth and perhaps last appearance in the classic.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

New York, Sept. 16 (AP).—As the fat years give way to the lean and success becomes a tonic that finally drugs, so did Babe Ruth, after his mighty surge of 1921 tumble from home run heights and become the "busted phenomenon" of the Yankee world's series debacle of 1922.

It was no fault of Ruth's that the Yankees, after winning the American League pennant with the first of Miller Huggins's power-plus outfits in 1921, went down before John McGraw's Giants five games to three in the world's series.

Ruth topped his 59 home run splurge with a gallant series attack, popping the Giants pitching in the last of the best-five-out-of-nine series for five hits in 16 times at bat and an average of .313. The Yanks took the first two games, then dwindled down to lose five of the next six.

In Mild Debut.

It was Ruth's introduction to New York world's series play, the first of a string of seven that reaches a new climax in the coming struggle. In a small way he was a failure. Manhattan crowds expected something more spectacular. But the ordinariness of the Ruth of the 1921 series was magnificence itself compared to the helpless Babe of 1922.

The Bambino had fallen into evil ways through the season of 1922. Riding the high wave of popularity and fame, the Bam took time out along the way to sample the fruits of his conquests.

Found Much Fun.

He took his fun where he found it, and with more money in his hands than he ever thought existed fun wasn't hard to find. His home run hitting fell off to 35 for the season as Rogers Hornsby took away his leadership with 42. Ruth's hitting fell off to .315 from the tremendous .378 of 1921.

Huggins drove his rambling playboys through to the world's series, and there they fell apart. First Earl Nehf, then Jess Barnes, Jack Scott, Hughie McQuillan, then Nehf again tamed the Yanks. The Yanks could only tie one game for Bob Shawkey while losing four.

The Babe is shown above "shaking" with John McGraw at the Polo Grounds before the start of the 1922 world's series in one of the famed meetings of McGravian mind and Ruthian matter. McGraw's "masterminding" won in this series, his Giant hurling staff holding the big Yankee fence buster to two measly hits.

First Obituary.

Ruth hit exactly .118, driving in one run with two small hits. He was back in shape for the series but over-anxious. He simply couldn't get started. The fans rode him viciously.

After the series one of the guides wrote the Babe's obituary thusly:

"There are no excuses for the lamentably weak hitting of Babe Ruth, now an exploded phenomenon. He ...was, shown up in a way that amazed the fans....McGraw had Ruth's number....His boxmen fooled him with change of pace. They kept the balls low and were not afraid to pitch to him.

"Ruth went to the plate 21 times. He was passed unintentionally twice, nicked by a pitched ball once, made a single, two bagger and a sacrifice, was retired 7 times on infield grounders, forced one man at second, fouled out twice, flied out twice and fanned three times."

That was the first of Ruth's obituaries.

The next year he hit .393 for the season, including 41 homers.

SPORT SLANTS

By Alan J. Gould

(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

By now, perhaps, British sportsmen may be sorry that America ever brought up the subject of competition for the Walker cup in amateur golf or the Harmsworth cup in speedboat racing.

The jinx pursuing British challengers in these two affairs is among the most persistent on record anywhere. Seven straight times, in each contest, the British Lion has been beaten off until popular interest has reached the point of diminishing.

Sympathy undoubtedly was with Kaye Don and his Miss England III this year. The popular American feeling was that if the Britisher actually did not receive a bad deal at Detroit the year before, at least he was the victim of an unusually poor break in racing fortune, just when it looked as though he was due to win the famous trophy.

This time, however, Gar Wood's apprehension, if any, was quickly relieved by Don's mechanical difficulties and the veteran American driver, in his Miss America X, retained the trophy without so much as a real race in either of the two heats.

Americans Just Better.

American spectators, too, cheered the British golfers at Brookline in their gallant attempts to save something out of the wreck of their Walker cup hopes, but applause doesn't sink any long putts, so that the visitors had to be satisfied with a single victory and three "halves."

"We simply have to admit you Americans play better golf," said Tony Torrance, captain of the British team.

The Walker cup records prove he is exactly right. When Bob Jones, George Von Elm and other stalwarts were leading the parade in this competition, the U. S. A. scored few triumphs so impressive as that gained by the youthful talent at Brookline, gathered from Richmond, Dallas, Portland, Los Angeles and New York.

The average young American golfer nowadays is in the habit of hanging around in the low 70's, whereas the majority of the top-flight British boys have difficulty often in breaking 80.

That's the main reason why the big Walker cup has never left home.

Same Story In Polo

From all indications in our best polo circles, the U. S. A. is pretty sure of retaining custody of the international cup, another celebrated trophe de sport, providing the times are such as to make possible a British challenge again next year.

Whether it is because many of our young men have more time and energy nowadays to devote to the galloping game, the fact is, nevertheless, that the so-called period of depression has witnessed faster and better polo-playing, not only in the east, but particularly in the southwest and in southern California.

The last "Big Four" to ride against Britain, consisting of Pedley, Hopping, Hitchcock and Guest, probably remains the best combination this country could put together and would be well-nigh unbeatable. Yet there are plenty of hard-riding young horsemen able and willing to challenge them when tryouts are called for by the U. S. Board of Strategy.

EGYPTIANS ASKS NATIONS TO EJECT BRITISH ARMY.

Cairo (AP).—A native of Chebin-el-Kom, Lower Egypt, appointed himself a mythical commander-in-chief of a mythical army to "liberate the country from the British." To assist his campaign he wrote to:

President Von Hindenburg, telling him to send 30 German submarines up the Nile;

Mustapha Kemal, directing him to dispatch 70,000 Turkish troops;

The League of Nations, demanding evacuation of the British soldiers.

The "war lord" wound up in jail.

URGE SAAR BE MADE INDEPENDENT STATE

What Will Happen When Control by France Ends?

Washington—What will happen to the Saar?

As 1935, the end of the fifteen-year period for which the coal mines of the Saar basin were turned over to France, approaches, that query is bidding for an important place in European politics.

"Saar, which straddles the Lorraine-German border, almost next door to Luxemburg, is a region about two-thirds as large as Rhode Island and is famous for its mineral deposits," says a bulletin from the Washington (D. C.) headquarters of the National Geographic society.

Famous Coal Region.

"Before the World war when Lorraine was German territory, the combination of Lorraine iron deposits and Saar coal deposits made this region one of the outstanding steel production regions of Europe.

"Saar coal, perhaps, would still belong to Germany, if it were not for the efficiency of German troops who, while retreating in north France, destroyed coal mines that once yielded 28,000,000 tons annually. Because of this act, when the peace treaty was framed, diplomats attempted to compensate France by turning over Saar coal digging rights to France for a period of fifteen years—1920 to 1935. The German government also was called upon to compensate private mine owners in the Saar fields for their losses but these losses were not difficult to meet as most of the mines were the state property of Prussia and Bavaria.

"The transfer of coal mining rights to France, however, was not made without political and economic obstacles. The region could not remain under German control for the property rights of the French would not be assured protection, and the great German population and German property could not be placed under French control. The League of Nations, therefore, set up a governing commission composed of one Frenchman, one citizen of the local region, and three non-French and non-German members. The commission is directly responsible to the League council.

"Saar took its name from the Saar river, a winding stream which flows through the western part of the region. While coal is the district's most famous product, the river banks are covered with vast fruit orchards and vineyards. There are also farms, but agriculture is not a major Saar industry. On the picturesque hills, here and there dominated by ancient castles of Roman days, are thick forests which form the basis of another important industry.

Prussian After Waterloo.

"The coal mines now being worked lie about ten miles to the northeast of Saarbrucken, a city of some 125,000 inhabitants who are employed in many industries. Saarbrucken's skyline is studded with the smokestacks of blast furnaces, metallurgical establishments of many kinds, machine shops, chemical works and ceramic kilns. The city is an important railroad center.

"Saarbrucken went to France ten years before our Declaration of Independence was signed. After the battle of Waterloo, the Allies took it and turned it over to Prussia. At that time the coal deposits were hardly known. Its present prestige may be credited to the development of the steel industry which thrust it to the front among the important European mineral regions owing to its location near the Lorraine iron deposits.

"Recent reports indicate that there is a growing movement in some parts of Europe to urge the creation of an independent Saar state under the protection of the League of Nations. If no change is made from the original provisions of the treaty, however, in 1935 the people of the region will decide by popular vote whether to live under the French or the German flag."

"Coin the Ocean"! Prize Idea for Solving Crisis

Boston.—The "prize idea" for ending unemployment was a proposal to have everybody extract gold from the salt water of the ocean, Harvey A. Wooster, director of the Massachusetts commission on stabilization of unemployment, revealed.

The gist of the idea was that since there was about five cents worth of gold in every cubic yard of sea water, all the unemployed could tackle the job and all could be millionaires.

Director Wooster threw a wrench into the works, though, by pointing out that it would cost more than 5 cents to get a nickel's worth of gold out of the water.

Enemy War Flyers Stage Friendly Race

London.—Two aviators, enemies in the World war, recently staged a friendly air race around London. One was Baron E. von Schleich, known during the war as the Black Knight of the German air force; the other was Maj. Christopher Draper, the Mad Major of the Royal air force in war years.

The German lost the race by thirty seconds, but his British opponent "stood" for the dinner given later at the clubrooms of the Old Comrades of the Air Force.

Johnny Raymond Tops Card Again

Johnny Raymond, who was trimmed by Eddie Seaton the last time he fought the main bout on the American Legion card, is again taking the lead this Monday night against Jackie Manning from Schenectady.

[illegible] Manning is a [illegible] the same [illegible] Seaton was [illegible] last week and lost [illegible] crown [illegible]. No fight Manning [illegible] Raymond all he can handle [illegible] who [illegible] Manning [illegible].

This main match has the drawing [illegible] equal [illegible] special six rounds between Joe Ponsis of Kingston and Adam Unverza of Ellenville. This meeting should [illegible] last fight on the Legion card and it was the high spot of the evening.

Joe lost that fight against the clever and tough Tony Amento. It was a fine scrap both taking and giving [illegible] equally until the last rounds, when Ponsis showed signs of unsteadiness and began to bleed about the face. Still Ponsis was nearly a match. No doubt if the [illegible] had the [illegible] experience of Amento he would have beaten the Italian by a good margin. Amento's crew more than Joe but not a great deal more.

Ponsis has been showing great stuff in his comeback. This will be his third bout since his layoff of over a period of months. The first scrap was awarded to Joe, the second he lost.

The remainder of the card is as follows:

Buddy Emmerson, St. Remy, vs. Charles Russo, Schenectady, semi-final, six rounds.

Jack Trout, Kingston, vs. Billy Waters, Schenectady, 4 rounds.

Nick Alteri, Schenectady, vs. "Big Smoke" Atkins, East Kingston, 4 rounds.

Ralph Brown, Kingston, vs. Sailor Burck, West Hurley, 4 rounds.

Bill Martin, Rosendale, vs. Frankie Kouhout, Kingston, 4 rounds.

Straight Bean Diet Too Much for Welsh Miners

Beans, hard-boiled brown beans, were responsible for the first labor strike in Cariboo, and perhaps in western Canada, writes Louis Lebourdais in a Vancouver paper. The strike occurred in the winter of 1863-1864, when 26 Welsh miners employed by "Captain" John Evans on Lightning creek, Cariboo, walked out as a protest against a straight bean diet.

"It was not the noise—and it was plenty—made by 26 men trying to crack open and masticate a plateful of half-cooked beans at each meal, to which we objected," said Harry Jones, recalling the incident. "It was the smell of the cursed things, as much as anything, while they were being cooked.

"The cook, a Welshman like ourselves, was entirely unfamiliar with even the first essential in the preparation of beans; and for a long time he refused to learn. We suffered as a consequence.

"When we struck, Captain Evans was furious, but he was forced to compromise by adding flour and rice to the bill of fare."

Formal Notification of Call to Domestic Duty

It seems that the wife of a well-known member of the Central Manufacturing District club, whom we shall name fictitiously for obvious reasons, has experienced considerable difficulty in persuading her spouse to assume a share in the family responsibilities. Particularly would she appreciate a helping hand in the morning when there are breakfast to get, children to dress, and a host of other cares to discharge in a minimum of time.

Other means failing, she finally resorted to the formally ironic and, wakening him one morning, thrust before his astonished eyes the following neatly done card:

Mrs. Easton Weswood
requests the esteemed company of
Mr. Easton Weswood
at the robing of their children,
Edward, Eleanor, and Edelweiss,
this morning at seven-fifteen
in the main and only bathroom of the Weswood domicile.

Poor Outlook

An anonymous English poet doesn't take very kindly to the info that our longevity is increasing.

"So we're all getting stronger, are bound to live longer? There's nothing consoling in that! It's really no blessing; in fact, it's distressing to think we may rival the cat. . . .

"The chap who has married will wish he had tarried: Nine lives with one wife, in a bog of credits for dresses and crimps in her tresses would equal nine lives of a dog.

"Whoever's elated to learn we are slated for ancient Methuselah's role, is perfectly sappy—or maybe he's happy at thought of nine lives on the dole."—Boston Transcript.

How Shoes Are Measured

The difference in the width sizes of shoes is one-twelfth of an inch, according to the standard system of measurement, explains Pathfinder Magazine. Widths are indicated alphabetically by letters; as, AAA, AA, A, B, C, D, E. The first letter stands for the narrower widths and the greater widths are indicated progressively to E. By width is meant the amount of ball room in the shoe, that is, the widest part of the front section of the shoe. Combination lasts are often used. An A width may be used for the heel and a B width for the ball. This gives a snug fit to persons having small boned ankles.

BONERS

Seafaring men in the habit of drinking are liable to collide with other vessels.

BONERS are actual humorous tidbits found in examination papers, essays, etc., by teachers.

Faith is that quality which enables us to believe what we know to be untrue.

Good looks aren't always luck

Sparkling eyes and a smooth complexion depend on good health.

The beautiful woman guards against constipation. She knows this condition can cause headaches, sallow skin, dull eyes, pimples, premature aging.

Protect yourself from constipation by eating a delicious cereal. Tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and Vitamin B to tone the intestinal tract. In addition, ALL-BRAN furnishes blood-building iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is similar to that of lettuce. Within the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes. How much safer than pills and drugs—so often habit-forming.

Two tablespoonfuls daily—in serious cases, with every meal—will correct most types of constipation. If your trouble is not relieved in this way, see your doctor.

Serve as a cereal, with milk or cream, or use in cooking. At all grocers. In the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek
